Upon agreed motion by the parties (Elder Dkt. 27; Dearmore Dkt. 30), the Court consolidated the Elder and Dearmore cases and ordered the Plaintiffs to file a consolidated complaint. (Elder Dkt. 28; Dearmore Dkt. 31). The agreed motion also contemplated the addition of a third plaintiff. Accordingly, Plaintiffs Ginger Elder, Jacquelyn Dearmore, and Benjamin Taylor state the following in support of their consolidated complaint for declaratory judgment, injunctive relief, and damages against Cindy Gillespie, Craig Cloud, Richard Rosen, Jerald Sharum, David W. Sterling, Mark White, and John Does in their official and individual capacities:

I. PRELIMINARY STATEMENT

1. Ginger Elder, Jacquelyn Dearmore, and Benjamin Taylor have multiple disabilities, and their continued residence in the community rather than in institutions depends on services provided under the ARChoices Medicaid program. Through ARChoices, individuals who are over 65 or have disabilities receive in-home care, access to the full range of state plan Medicaid benefits, and financial support to pay Medicare premiums. Although Ms. Elder, Ms. Dearmore, and Mr. Taylor have been on the program for five, eight, and two years, respectively, and experienced no medical improvement, the Arkansas Department of Human Services (ADHS) terminated their eligibility entirely or cut the amount of care they receive by roughly 30%. Each promptly appealed ADHS's decision.

2. Clearly established constitutional due process principles require that a Medicaid beneficiary receive adequate written notice of the reasons for any adverse action and have the opportunity for an evidentiary hearing before services are reduced. Such requirements are similarly enshrined in the Medicaid Act and accompanying federal and state regulations that specify the requirements of written notice and allow a beneficiary to continue services at pre-reduction levels pending the outcome of an administrative hearing. Providing beneficiaries the full process due to them is a fundamental obligation and function of ADHS.

3. Although each of them requested an administrative hearing and requested that their services be maintained pending the outcome, ADHS nevertheless terminated or reduced their services. As a result, Ms. Elder did not receive the in-home care she needed, stopped receiving mental health services, and incurred significant financial expenses for items and costs previously covered under ARChoices. Ms. Dearmore's loss of care forced her to skip meals, sit in urine-soaked clothing, forego bathing, miss medical appointments, and experience increased depression. Mr. Taylor's loss of care resulted in a fall and cracked rib, forced him to go without daily baths, and disrupted the medicine and meal regimen required to manage an inflammatory intestinal disease. In addition, ADHS did not send Ms. Dearmore a written notice that identified that a reduction in services was taking place or explained the reasons for the reduction, leaving her in the dark, unable to anticipate or plan for her future.

4. For over four years, ADHS and the named defendants have perpetuated the agency's systematic failure to provide proper written notice and continue the benefits of people who appeal within 10 days of the notice. They have refused to take corrective action that would have prevented the present harm to the Plaintiffs. Accordingly, the Plaintiffs ask the Court to order the Defendants in their official capacities to remedy the illegal practices and seek monetary damages from the named defendants in their individual capacities.

II. JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. This action arises under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 and the Due Process Clause of Amend. XIV of the United States Constitution. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1331 and 28 U.S.C. § 1343(a)(3) and (4).

6. This Court has jurisdiction to issue declaratory relief and injunctive relief pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §§ 2201 and 2202 and Fed. R. Civ. Pro. 65.

7. The venue of this action is appropriately in this judicial district and division pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), as ADHS and the named defendants in their official capacities are headquartered in Little Rock and, on information and belief, the named defendants in their individual capacities reside in Little Rock.

16. Mark White is currently Chief of Staff to Gillespie and ADHS's Chief Legislative and Intergovernmental Affairs officer. Between February 2018 until October 2019, he was the deputy director of ADHS's Division of Aging, Adult, and Behavioral Health Services. On information and belief, he is a resident of Pulaski County, Arkansas.

IV. BACKGROUND ON THE ARCHOICES MEDICAID PROGRAM

17. Medicaid is a medical assistance program for individuals with limited economic resources created pursuant to federal statute and subject to federal oversight. See generally 42 U.S.C. § 1396. The federal Center for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS) is an agency within the United States Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) charged with administration of the Medicaid program at the federal level.

18. States have the option to participate in Medicaid. Once a state elects to participate in Medicaid, it must adhere to the federal legal requirements provided by the Medicaid Act, rules promulgated by CMS, and the United States Constitution. Arkansas has elected to participate in Medicaid. See Ark. Code Ann. § 20-77-107. Arkansas has designated ADHS to be the "single State agency" to administer or supervise the administration of the state's Medicaid program. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(5).

19. The Medicaid Act sets forth mandatory services that participating states must include in their Medicaid programs and optional services that participating states may include in their Medicaid programs. See 42 U.S.C. §§ 1396a(a)(10)(A), 1396d(a). States express the types and amounts of covered services, conditions for eligibility, and other related information in a "state plan."

20. The Medicaid Act allows states to deviate from provisions that apply to state plan services in certain situations prescribed by statute. Pursuant to specific statutes, a state requests that CMS waive provisions that the Medicaid Act deems to be waivable. Medicaid programs operated pursuant to such a waiver are called “waiver programs.”

21. One type of “waiver” program allows states to operate Home and Community-Based Services (HCBS) programs. See 42 U.S.C. § 1396n(c) (also known as Section 1915(c) of the Social Security Act). Such HCBS waiver programs are designed to provide community-based alternatives for individuals who would otherwise require institutionalization in a setting such as a nursing facility. See id. A state operating an HCBS waiver program must comply with all provisions of the Medicaid Act that were not waived and all other applicable constitutional provisions, statutes, and regulations. The waived provisions of the Medicaid Act are not at issue in this lawsuit.

22. ADHS currently operates an HCBS waiver program under Section 1915(c) called ARChoices.<sup>1</sup> ARChoices allows the state to save money by providing community-based care to individuals who would otherwise be institutionalized. On average, the cost of providing community-based care to a waiver-qualified individual is less than the cost of providing comparable care in an institutional setting, such as a nursing facility.

23. ARChoices provides an array of services for program beneficiaries, including, but not limited to, attendant care services, home-delivered meals, and a personal emergency response system. These are considered “waiver services.”

<sup>1</sup> Prior to 2016, ADHS operated two home- and community-based services programs for beneficiaries who had disabilities or were elderly: Alternatives for Adults with Physical Disabilities (AAPD) for people under 65 and Elder Choices for people 65 and older. Starting January 1, 2016, these programs were combined into ARChoices.

24. In addition to the ARChoices-specific services, an ARChoices beneficiary receives the full range of state plan Medicaid services, including personal care services and coverage for mental health services, diagnostic tests, medical and incontinence supplies, and prescription medications. These are considered “non-waiver services.”

25. In addition to the ARChoices-specific services and the full range of state plan Medicaid services, an ARChoices beneficiary who is simultaneously eligible for Medicare Part B receives full payment of Medicare Part B premiums, deductibles, and co-payments.<sup>2</sup> See generally 42 U.S.C. § 1395v(a); 42 C.F.R. § 431.625; Social Security Administration, Program Operation Manual System § HI 01001.205;<sup>3</sup> Arkansas Medicaid State Plan Attachment 3.2 (effective 1/1/89).

26. Attendant care involves assistance with activities of daily living, including eating, bathing, dressing, personal hygiene (grooming, shampooing, shaving, skin care, oral care, etc.), toileting, mobility/ambulating, including mastering the use of adaptive aids and equipment, meal planning and preparation, laundry, shopping, housekeeping, assistance with medication, and traveling for purposes of medical appointments or community activities. ARChoices Provider Manual § 213.210.<sup>4</sup>

27. Personal care involves assistances related to activities of daily living, including bathing, bladder and bowel requirements, dressing, eating, housekeeping, laundry, personal

<sup>2</sup> An ARChoices beneficiary may be simultaneously eligible for Medicare Part B if they are age 65 or over or receive Social Security Disability Insurance benefits. Medicare Part B covers different services than Medicaid and has different terms of coverage. For example, Medicare Part B excludes attendant care and imposes deductibles and co-payments not found in Medicaid. An individual eligible for Medicare must pay premiums to receive Medicare Part B coverage unless she is eligible for premium assistance through ARChoices or other applicable programs.

hygiene, shopping for personal maintenance items, medication assistance, mobility, and ambulation. Personal Care Provider Manual § 213.210.<sup>5</sup>

28. Attendant and personal care can be provided in two ways. The first way is that an ARChoices beneficiary can receive services through a caregiving agency of their own choosing. The caregiving agency provides care aides at appointed times and manages billing and payment with ADHS. The second way is that a beneficiary can hire (and fire) a caregiver of their own choosing, in which case the beneficiary signs timesheets submitted to PALCO, an ADHS vendor that pays the hired caregiver with funds provided and authorized by ADHS. A beneficiary may choose to have attendant or personal care provided by both methods, with a caregiving agency providing care at appointed times and a hired attendant at others. The caregiving agency or PALCO also provides a case manager to monitor the beneficiary's status every month and report significant changes to ADHS as appropriate.

29. To be eligible for ARChoices, an individual must meet financial and functional eligibility criteria. The financial eligibility criteria is not at issue in this lawsuit. To meet the functional eligibility criteria, a person between the ages of 21 and 64 must have a physical disability as defined by the Social Security Administration and require an intermediate level of care in a nursing facility. An individual over 65 must only require an intermediate level of care in a nursing facility. ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.000. Pursuant to promulgated regulations, an individual requires an intermediate level of care only in the following three situations:

- (a) The individual must be unable to perform either (1) at least 1 of the 3 activities of daily living (ADLs) of transferring/locomotion, eating or toileting without extensive assistance from, or total dependence upon another person; or (2) at least 2 of the 3 ADLs of transferring/locomotion, eating, or toileting without limited assistance from another person;

(b) The individual has a primary or secondary diagnosis of Alzheimer's disease or related dementia and is cognitively impaired so as to require substantial supervision from another individual because he or she engages in inappropriate behaviors which pose serious health or safety hazards to themselves or others; or

(c) The individual has a diagnosed medical condition which requires monitoring or assessment at least once a day by a licensed medical professional and the condition, if untreated, would be life-threatening.

Id.

30. The eligibility criteria listed in Paragraph 29(a) for ARChoices and its predecessor programs has not changed since at least 2005.

31. ADHS conducts a functional eligibility assessment at least once per year to determine whether an individual is eligible. If the person is eligible, ADHS then determines the amount of services to allocate using separate criteria.

32. Prior to January 1, 2016, ADHS used an assessment tool called ArPath to assess an individual's eligibility. The agency determined the amount of services to allocate under ARChoices' predecessor programs according to the professional discretion of a ADHS registered nurse, who could authorize beneficiaries under the age of 65 up to eight hours per day of care and beneficiaries age 65 or over up to seven hours per day of care.

33. Starting January 1, 2016, while still using the ArPath to assess eligibility, ADHS changed the way it allocated care by switching from the system of nurse discretion to an algorithm-based methodology called RUGs (short for Resource Utilization Groups). Under RUGs, about half of all ARChoices beneficiaries received service reductions. Use of the ArPath and RUGs ended on December 31, 2018.

34. Starting January 1, 2019, ADHS again changed its system for assessing beneficiary eligibility and for allocating services.

35. Starting January 1, 2019, ADHS began using an assessment tool called Arkansas Independent Assessment (ARIA). A nurse employed by a contracted company called Optum visits an applicant or beneficiary in their home, asks the questions provided by the ARIA assessment tool, and marks a response. The responses to the assessment are run through an algorithm to place the beneficiary into a tier used to determine eligibility. People eligible according to the assessment and algorithm are classified as Tier Two. ADHS's Office of Long-Term Care then reviews the results and decides whether an individual is eligible for ARChoices, sometimes overruling the assessment's tier result. Eligible individuals then move onto the process for developing an "ARChoices Person-Centered Service Plan" and determining the amount of services ADHS will allocate to them.

36. Starting January 1, 2019, ADHS's introduced a multi-step process to determine the amount of services to allocate an eligible individual:

(a) First, ADHS assigns a beneficiary an Individual Service Budget. Generally, ADHS has three Individual Service Budget levels, which allow an ARChoices beneficiary to receive up to $5,000, $20,000, or $30,000 worth of waiver services per year. ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.200(D). The budget level assigned depends on results from the ARIA assessment tool. An individual who is rated as needing extensive assistance or total dependence in all three activities of daily living of transferring/locomotion, eating, and toileting is placed at the $30,000 level. Id. An individual who is rated as needing extensive assistance or total dependence in two of the three activities of daily living of transferring/locomotion, eating, and toileting is placed at the $20,000 level. Id. Any other individual is placed at the $5,000 budget level. Id. Additionally, there is a fourth possible budget level limited to individuals who received more than $30,000 worth of waiver services during 2018. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.200(D)(3). For these select beneficiaries, ADHS authorizes a “Transitional Allowance” budget for 2019 and 2020 that is fixed at the total cost of the person’s waiver services for 2018, even if that amount exceeds $30,000. Id.

(b) Second, an ADHS registered nurse visits the eligible individual in their home to complete a form called the Task and Hour Standards. The Task and Hour Standards lists 11 activities of daily living (ADLs)—eating, bathing, dressing, grooming, toileting, walking/mobility, transferring/positioning, cleaning, shopping, laundry, and meal preparation. For each ADL, the nurse determines a beneficiary’s placement in one of three Needs Intensity levels based on the assistance the person requires and then allots a specific number of minutes from a range authorized for that level. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.300(D). The nurse then determines the frequency of assistance needed and tabulates the total amount of time to allocate for that ADL. Id. After completing this process for all 11 ADLs, the nurse calculates the total monthly amount of medically necessary care hours. Id. The Task and Hour Standards does not contain a space for the nurse to allocate travel time to accompany a beneficiary to medical appointments or community activities, even though ADHS policy provides for such time. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 213.220(D).

(c) Third, during the ADHS nurse's home visit, the nurse determines the amount of care hours deemed medically necessary under the Task and Hour Standards that the individual can receive under the assigned Individual Service Budget level. See generally ARChoices Provider Manual §§ 212.200, 212.300. Home-delivered meals and the personal emergency response system also count against the budget. ADHS has set the value of each attendant care hour at $18.12, each home-delivered meal at $5.97, and the personal emergency response system at $32.62 per month. Arkansas Medicaid ARChoices Fee Schedule.<sup>6</sup> A person may not receive services costing more than the budget level, even if the ADHS nurse has determined that more care hours or other waiver services are medically necessary. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.300(D)(6). Conversely, a person cannot receive more care hours or other waiver services than are determined to be medically necessary, even if their budget level is sufficient to afford more services. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.200(B)(5). The service level determinations are reflected in a document called the ARChoices Person-Centered Service Plan.

(d) Fourth, at some point after the home visit, the ADHS nurse sends the client a copy of the completed ARChoices Person-Centered Service Plan along with a Notice of Action. This mailing triggers a beneficiary's appeal rights.

37. ADHS assesses program participants at least once every year to determine their functional eligibility and, if eligible, to develop an updated person-centered service plan. See ARChoices Provider Manual § 212.320. Beneficiaries can be subject to re-assessment more than once a year if they experience a change in status or service needs. See ARChoices Provider Manual §§ 212.305, 212.500.

38. ADHS has no plans to switch to a different assessment tool, allocation methodology, or notice of action than those now used.

V. DUE PROCESS GUARANTEES

39. Constitutional due process requires that ADHS inform a beneficiary of an adverse action by a “timely and adequate notice detailing the reasons for” a proposed action. Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970). Various state and federal statutes and regulations further prescribe the notice’s content, including the action to be taken, specific reasons for the action, the right to appeal, how to file an appeal, and how to receive continuing benefits pending the appeal decision. Ark. Code Ann. § 20-77-121; Ark. Medical Services Policy J-100 to 120;<sup>7</sup> 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(3); 42 C.F.R. §§ 431.201, 431.206, 431.210.

40. Constitutional due process also provides that individuals on Medicaid are entitled to an evidentiary hearing prior to the termination or reduction of their benefits. Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970); O’Bannon v. Town Court Nursing Ctr., 447 U.S. 773, 786-87 (1980) (“The Government cannot withdraw these direct [Medicaid] benefits without giving the patients notice and an opportunity for a hearing on the issue of their eligibility for benefits.”).

41. The requirements for adequate notice of adverse action and an evidentiary hearing prior to the termination or reduction of a beneficiary’s Medicaid benefits were clearly established law under the U.S. Constitution at the time of the violation of the Plaintiffs’ due process rights alleged here. With respect to adequate notice:

(a) In Jacobs v. Gillespie, 3:16-cv-119-DPM (E.D. Ark. Nov. 1, 2016), Judge Marshall held that ADHS provided deficient notice to ARChoices beneficiaries under the ArPath assessment and RUGs allocation methodologies in effect at that time.

(b) On October 2, 2018, White stated in an email that ADHS officials could be personally liable for notice deficiencies in the wake of Jacobs: “Because Judge Marshall ruled that the notice was constitutionally defective, any further action to enforce the defective notices could qualify as violation of a ‘clearly established’ right, endangering the qualified immunity of DHS employees and placing the State at risk.”

42. Various federal and state Medicaid statutes and regulations enshrine the constitutional due process guarantee of an evidentiary hearing for adverse agency actions affecting a person’s Medicaid benefits. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C. § 1396a(a)(3); 42 C.F.R. § 431.205 (incorporating Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970)); Ark. Code Ann. § 20-77-121; Ark. Code Ann. § 25-15-208.

43. Federal Medicaid regulations explicitly provide that ADHS must send a notice of adverse action to a beneficiary at least 10 days before the date the adverse action will take effect. 42 C.F.R. § 431.211. If a beneficiary appeals before the date the adverse action is to take effect, ADHS may not terminate or reduce Medicaid benefits until the outcome of an evidentiary hearing. 42 C.F.R. § 431.230. See also 42 C.F.R. § 431.231.

44. State Medicaid regulations provide that ADHS may not terminate or reduce Medicaid benefits until the outcome of an evidentiary hearing where a beneficiary appeals within 10 days of the date on the notice of adverse action. ADHS Medicaid Provider Manual § 161.500; Ark. Medical Services Policy J-100, J-110, L-120.

45. The applicable constitutional provisions, statutes, and regulations do not commit discretion to ADHS to reduce or terminate the Medicaid benefits of beneficiaries who appeal within 10 days of the date on the notice of adverse action unless the beneficiary requests reduction or termination.

VI. PLAINTIFFS' FACTS

Ginger Elder

46. Ginger Elder is a former teacher, liked sewing as a hobby when she was younger, and used to be very active in her local church. She has been married to her husband Vilas Elder for about 29 years.

47. Ms. Elder has multiple medical conditions, including an enlarged heart, diabetes, diabetes-related neuropathy in her hands and feet, osteoarthritis, diverticulitis, irritable bowel syndrome, chronic bladder infections, damage to both knees, damage to her right shoulder, major depressive disorder, anxiety disorder, and Bell's palsy. She is oxygen-dependent and requires an oxygen tank at all times. She has frequent bowel and bladder incontinence. She had one knee replaced in or around 2014 and is waiting to have surgery to have the other knee replaced. She developed a hernia in her abdomen as a result of a fall in late April or early May 2019 while being without Medicaid.

48. Ms. Elder became eligible for Medicare in or around 2013.

49. Ms. Elder applied for ARChoices Medicaid in 2015, and ADHS determined her to be eligible. ADHS assessed her again in 2016, 2017, and 2018 and determined her eligible each time. On each assessment, ADHS determined that Ms. Elder met the functional eligibility criteria recited in Paragraph 29(a).<sup>8</sup>

50. As a beneficiary of ARChoices, Ms. Elder received attendant care and home-delivered meals. She chose to receive her attendant care services through East Arkansas Area Agency on Aging, a caregiving agency. She received one home-delivered meal each day of the week.

51. ADHS increased Ms. Elder's allocation of care hours in 2016, 2017, and 2018. Based on the last assessment ADHS performed prior to 2019, ADHS determined that Ms. Elder required approximately 30 hours per week of care.

52. Ms. Elder used attendant and/or personal care services to help her to get in and out of bed and chairs, to move from one place to another without falling, to get on and off the toilet, to clean herself fully after using the toilet, to bathe, to dress, to do laundry, and to prepare meals.

53. Ms. Elder's functional abilities have not improved since her last assessment prior to 2019.

54. As a beneficiary of ARChoices, Ms. Elder also received the full range of state plan Medicaid services. Her state plan Medicaid benefits covered personal care, mental health treatment, medical supplies, prescription drugs, and other services.

55. As a beneficiary of ARChoices, ADHS paid or arranged for payment of Ms. Elder's Medicare Part B premiums, deductibles, and co-payments.

<sup>8</sup> The individual must be unable to perform either (1) at least 1 of the 3 activities of daily living (ADLs) of transferring/locomotion, eating or toileting without extensive assistance from, or total dependence upon another person; or (2) at least 2 of the 3 ADLs of transferring/locomotion, eating, or toileting without limited assistance from another person

56. On or around January 15, 2019, ADHS assessed Ms. Elder for ARChoices eligibility using the ARIA assessment instrument.

57. On or around March 12, 2019, ADHS informed East Arkansas Area Agency on Aging that Ms. Elder would no longer be eligible for ARChoices and would be terminated from the program pursuant to the January 15, 2019 assessment. East Arkansas Area Agency on Aging informed Ms. Elder of the impending termination, that an appeal process was available, and that a prompt appeal would allow her Medicaid to continue until the outcome of an appeal hearing.

58. On March 13, 2019, without being represented by counsel, Ms. Elder appealed ADHS's decision to terminate her eligibility for ARChoices services. She sent a letter to ADHS's Office of Appeals and Hearings at P.O. Box 1437, Slot N-401, Little Rock, Arkansas, 72203. In the appeal letter, Ms. Elder asked ADHS to reinstate her ARChoices services.

59. On March 15, 2019, ADHS issued a notice of action to Ms. Elder terminating her ARChoices eligibility as of March 25, 2019 (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 1). The notice of action states the following:

If you disagree with the action we plan to take, you may request a hearing. You must make your hearing request no later than 30 days from the date of this notice to receive a hearing.

If you are currently receiving Medicaid assistance and request a hearing by the effective date shown on the front page, your assistance may be continued at its present level pending a decision on your appeal. If assistance is continued at its present level until a decision is reached, you may be required to repay the additional benefits if the hearing is not in your favor.

60. ADHS received Ms. Elder's appeal letter by March 25, 2019.

61. On March 25, 2019, ADHS terminated Ms. Elder's ARChoices Medicaid, including ARChoices-specific services, state plan Medicaid services, and coverage of her Medicare Part B premium, deductibles, and co-payments.

62. In direct response to Ms. Elder's original complaint in the present action filed on May 23, 2019, and sent to ADHS's lawyers the same day, ADHS stated that, on Friday, May 24, 2019, it restored Ms. Elder's ARChoices. Not all services were restored at the same time.

63. Between March 25, 2019, and May 26, 2019, as a result of the termination of ARChoices, Ms. Elder did not receive any home-delivered meals, attendant care, or state plan personal care.

64. Between March 25, 2019 and May 26, 2019, as a result of the termination of ARChoices, Ms. Elder has had to stay in one place more than she did prior, fell several times, was not able to be fully changed or cleaned when needed, stayed in her own waste longer, and ate less than she wanted to.

65. Between March 25, 2019 and May 26, 2019, as a result of the termination of ARChoices, Ms. Elder did not receive any mental health treatment. As a result, she experienced greater depression and anxiety, which caused her increased suffering.

66. Ms. Elder uses approximately 12 pull-up diapers per day, the cost of which ARChoices Medicaid covers. Even after her ARChoices was restored, Ms. Elder did not start receiving Medicaid-covered pull-ups until June 24, 2019. Between March 25, 2019 and June 24, 2019, as a result of the termination of ARChoices, she incurred at least $750 in costs for pull-up diapers.

67. Between March 25, 2019 and May 26, 2019, as a result of the termination of ARChoices, Ms. Elder incurred at least $350 in additional food costs to compensate for the loss of daily home-delivered meals caused by the termination of ARChoices Medicaid.

68. As a result of the termination of ARChoices Medicaid between March 25, 2019 and May 26, 2019, Ms. Elder was denied medically necessary vision care and services that would be covered under Medicaid. The medical provider was unwilling to see her without active insurance or prepayment for services, which she could not afford.

69. As a result of the termination of ARChoices Medicaid, Ms. Elder received a bill for $960 for dental services rendered. Since her ARChoices was restored, Medicaid paid this bill.

70. As a result of the termination of ARChoices Medicaid, Ms. Elder was required to pay her monthly Medicare Part B premium of $135.50. Between March 25, 2019, and May 30, 2019, she received $271 fewer in Social Security benefits, as this amount was deducted from her Social Security check to pay for the costs of Medicare Part B. Since her ARChoices was restored, this money has been reimbursed to her.

71. Between March 25 and May 26, 2019, Vilas Elder, Ms. Elder's 73 year-old husband, attempted to meet her care needs but was not physically able to fully do so. In addition, Mr. Elder worked part-time at a movie theater and occasionally did long-distance driving to earn money. He was often gone as much as seven hours at a time. Between March 25 and May 26, 2019, he had to work more often to earn money to attempt to cover costs previously covered under ARChoices Medicaid.

72. Pursuant to Ms. Elder's March 13, 2019 appeal letter, ADHS scheduled an administrative hearing for May 23, 2019. That hearing was continued to August 9, 2019, for purposes of obtaining legal representation.

73. While the hearing was pending, ADHS assessed Ms. Elder on May 21, 2019, and determined that she met the functional eligibility criteria for ARChoices.

74. On June 6, 2020, ADHS implemented a new plan of care allocating Ms. Elder about 30 weekly hours of combined attendant and personal care. The care plan lists an expiration date of May 22, 2020 (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 2).

75. After issuing the new care plan, ADHS withdrew the adverse action reflected in the March 15, 2019 notice.

76. Reinstatement of Ms. Elder's ARChoices Medicaid did not compensate her for the costs of care and medical treatment she went without or for other costs, anguish, and suffering she experienced as a result of ADHS's termination of ARChoices prior to an evidentiary hearing.

77. Based on ADHS's standard procedure of yearly assessment, Ms. Elder faces imminent re-assessment, which has been delayed due to COVID-19.<sup>9</sup>

Jacquelyn Dearmore

78. Jacquelyn Dearmore is a former high school teacher, florist and flower shop owner, and literacy instructor. She moved from eastern Arkansas to the Yellville area around 1980 to be closer to her family and, eventually, care for her ailing mother, who passed away in 2012.

79. Within two weeks of her mother's death in 2012, Ms. Dearmore was diagnosed with chronic myeloid leukemia, a form of cancer that she still has. Treatment for this form of leukemia involves medication that causes her to vomit, lose her hair, and gain significant weight.

80. Ms. Dearmore has multiple medical conditions apart from leukemia. She has chronic pain in her back and hips due to deteriorating discs and bone spurs, neuropathy in her arms and legs, osteoarthritis, osteoporosis, chronic urinary incontinence, bipolar disorder, and anxiety disorder.

81. Ms. Dearmore needs help with almost every aspect of daily life, including getting from one place to another, getting in and out of chairs, getting on and off the toilet, cleaning herself fully after using the toilet, showering, doing her daily grooming, cleaning the house, preparing meals, doing shopping, doing laundry, and going to medical appointments.

<sup>9</sup> <https://humanservices.arkansas.gov/resources/response-covid-19/dhs-emergency-rules> ("Section 212.312 concerning annual and semi-annual assessments by agency nurses are suspended to allow for extension of Person-Centered Service Plans (PCSP).")

82. In 2012, Ms. Dearmore applied and was determined eligible for the Alternatives for Adults with Physical Disabilities Medicaid program, the predecessor program to ARChoices. Every year since then, ADHS has assessed her and determined her eligible for the program under the criteria in Paragraph 29.<sup>10</sup>

83. Pursuant to Ms. Dearmore's plan of care in effect prior to November 8, 2019, DHS authorized Ms. Dearmore to receive 143 hours per month of attendant care, seven home-delivered meals per week, and a personal emergency response system (plan attached and incorporated as Exhibit 3). She had been receiving 143 hours per month of attendant care since August 2017 and, on information and belief, several previous years. Since December 2017, the Area Agency on Aging for Northwest Arkansas is the agency that provides her care.

84. On November 8, 2019, DHS mailed Ms. Dearmore a Notice of Action and an ARChoices Person-Centered Service Plan authorizing her to receive 103 hours per month of combined attendant and personal care under the ARChoices program, with a handwritten notation that the service level will be effective as of December 1, 2019. The service plan expires on July 1, 2020. The packet also contained a Task and Hour Standards form (notice, plan, and accompanying documents attached and incorporated as Exhibit 4).

85. The Notice of Action does not identify that a reduction has taken place and does not provide any specific reasons for the reduction with reference to the care allocation process described in Paragraph 36. Ms. Dearmore did not understand from the notice or service plan why her services were being reduced.

<sup>10</sup> The individual must be unable to perform either (1) at least 1 of the 3 activities of daily living (ADLs) of transferring/locomotion, eating or toileting without extensive assistance from, or total dependence upon another person; or (2) at least 2 of the 3 ADLs of transferring/locomotion, eating, or toileting without limited assistance from another person.

86. Ms. Dearmore's functional abilities have declined between 2017 and present.

87. On November 15, 2019, without being represented by counsel, Ms. Dearmore completed a form to appeal ADHS's decision to reduce her care hours and checked a box marked "I want to continue getting medical assistance until the hearing" (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 5). The form was emailed to DHS.appeals@dhs.arkansas.gov in accordance with its instructions. ADHS received the appeal within 10 days of November 8, 2019.

88. Starting December 1, 2019, ADHS authorized Ms. Dearmore to receive only 103 hours per month of combined attendant and personal care. Because of this, Ms. Dearmore's care agency was not able to provide more than 103 hours per month of care from December 1, 2019 to March 3, 2020, at which time the Defendants restored her care (Dearmore Dkt. 13) after being served with notice of her lawsuit and a motion for temporary restraining order. (Dearmore Dkt 1, 5).

89. Because of the reduced care hours, Ms. Dearmore's aides did not have enough time to meet all of her care needs in the house. She was forced to skip about one meal every day, lie in urine-soaked pads or clothing for periods several hours longer than before, take a shower only every other day instead of every day as she needed and wanted to, use dirty towels or clothes because all of her laundry cannot get done, live in a dirty house because her incontinence means that she sometimes left urine trails around the house, and give up going outside of her house. She suffered increased skin problems from not being cleaned enough, including in her genital area.

90. Because of the reduced care hours, Ms. Dearmore had to miss at least four medical appointments—including with her oncologist, cardiologist, psychiatrist, and ophthalmologist—because she did not have enough care hours for an aide to accompany her to appointments. Medicaid transportation did not permit her to ride without a care aide. The cancelled appointments caused her to forego diagnostic procedures and treatment necessary to manage her medical conditions.

91. Because of the reduced care hours, Ms. Dearmore experienced much stronger symptoms of depression and spent much more time crying than before the cuts. Because of the inadequate notice, she is unable to understand why the reduction took place, anticipate how ADHS will determine her care allocations, and plan for the future. As a result, she experiences greater anxiety.

92. Ms. Dearmore does not have anyone available to voluntarily provide care, and she did not have anyone available to voluntarily provide the additional care needed from December 1, 2019 to March 3, 2020. She could not afford to privately pay for the care she needed. Dearmore redirected about $150 per month normally dedicated to food, vitamins, and household necessities to pay acquaintances to occasionally run errands, clean, and cook when urgent.

93. Pursuant to Ms. Dearmore's November 15, 2019 appeal, ADHS scheduled an administrative hearing for February 12, 2020. The hearing was continued for purposes of obtaining legal representation. On March 3, 2020, ADHS cancelled the administrative hearing (Dearmore Dkt. 13) after being served with notice of this lawsuit and a motion for a temporary restraining order. On March 10, 2020, ADHS agreed to not reinstate the administrative until this lawsuit is resolved. (Dearmore Dkt. 17).

94. An administrative hearing does not encompass questions about the agency's violation of constitutional due process obligations to furnish continuing benefits pending the outcome of the hearing.

95. The administrative hearing officer does not have jurisdiction to decide issues arising under the United States Constitution or grant the relief requested here.

96. Ms. Dearmore underwent re-assessment by Optum on June 17, 2020. She is still awaiting a determination by ADHS about her ARChoices eligibility.

97. Assuming Ms. Dearmore remains eligible, ADHS would normally re-determine the amount of care she receives and complete a new service plan for her, as her current service plan expired on July 1, 2020. However, ADHS has agreed to not alter her care hour allocation until this lawsuit is resolved, subject to some exceptions. (Dearmore Dkt. 17).

98. ADHS will continue to assess Ms. Dearmore using the same ARIA assessment tool and related algorithms currently in effect. Except for ADHS's agreement not to alter her service level, the amount of services she receives would be determined by the same methodology currently in effect that resulted in a reduction in her services. ADHS has no plans to materially change the eligibility determination or service allocation processes presently in use. Thus, Ms. Dearmore faces a certain reduction of services.

99. When undertaking an adverse action regarding service allocation, ADHS will use substantially the same deficient notice of action she received in November 2019, which has been in use in the same form since January 1, 2019, and substantially the same failed process for continuing benefits pending appeal.

Benjamin Taylor

100. Benjamin "Bob" Taylor is a former college teacher, former hospital administrator, and a lifelong volunteer. He received a Presidential Humanitarian Service Award from President George H.W. Bush for his service work in Miami after Hurricane Andrew in 1992. He also served on the board of directors for the Northwest Arkansas Youth Ranch from 1994 through 1997. After some time away from Arkansas, he returned in 2010 and has been living in the Fayetteville area ever since.

101. Mr. Taylor has multiple medical conditions, including scoliosis, paraplegia in his lower extremities, prostate cancer, ischemic colitis, osteoarthritis in his hips, wrists, and fingers, and diabetes. He cannot straighten his spine or his legs and has chronic pain related to the scoliosis-related contortions of his body. His leg muscles are atrophied to the point that they cannot reliably bear weight. The colitis resulted in regular bimonthly hospitalizations over a three-year span due to restricted blood flow to his large intestine that caused chronic vomiting and inability to excrete through his bowels. After surgery in 2019 to address the colitis, Mr. Taylor developed chronic diarrhea, which occurs daily when the colitis is managed through medication. Any missed dosage results in several days of chronic vomiting, inability to excrete, and weakness due to the colitis. His prostate cancer is inoperable. He must take medicine to manage it, and any missed dose results in intense pain when urinating if he can void his bladder at all. He requires three insulin injections per day and regular food intake to manage his diabetes. The arthritis causes regular pain and restricts his range of movement, especially in his fingers.

102. Mr. Taylor's daily medicine regimen involves a self-administered insulin injection and doses of four other medications at noon, another self-administered insulin injection at 6 p.m., and a third self-administered insulin injection at midnight using a different type of insulin from the noon and 6 p.m. injections. Mr. Taylor requires reminders to take his medications and administer his injections at noon and 6 p.m.

103. Mr. Taylor requires assistance from another person getting on and off the toilet, cleaning himself fully after using the toilet, bathing, grooming, dressing, cleaning the house, preparing meals, doing shopping, and doing laundry. He cannot ambulate on his own and gets around via a power wheelchair. He generally requires assistance from another person to transfer into or out of a chair. While he can transfer himself into or out of his bed using the over-head trapeze if he is feeling well, he must be entirely lifted into and out of his bed whenever he is sick due to colitis.

104. Prior to 2018, Mr. Taylor received up to 64 hours monthly of in-home care through Arkansas Medicaid's state plan personal care service. Mr. Taylor chose Superior Senior Care as the agency to provide his personal care.

105. In 2018, Mr. Taylor was determined eligible for the ARChoices program. Pursuant to a February 2018 person-centered service plan (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 6), ADHS authorized him to receive 137 hours per month of attendant care per month and seven weekly home-delivered meals. Mr. Taylor chose Superior Senior Care as the agency to provide his attendant care.

106. In late 2019 or early 2020, Optum assessed him for continuing ARChoices eligibility. Based on that assessment, ADHS determined him eligible under the criteria stated in Paragraph 29.

107. On February 24, 2020, ADHS nurse Ramona Crockett visited Mr. Taylor in his home and completed a new person-centered service plan allocating him a total of 86.75 monthly hours of combined attendant and personal care and removing home-delivered meals (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 7). She left him a copy of the service plan.

108. Although the service plan states that it was mailed on February 25, 2020, Mr. Taylor never received a copy of it in the mail, did not receive a notice of action, did not receive any information about his Individual Service Budget, and did not receive a copy of the Task and Hour

Worksheet. He did not understand why ADHS cut his services other than a statement by Ms. Crockett that the state is trying to cut costs.

109. Mr. Taylor's functional abilities have declined between February 2018 and present.

110. On March 1, 2020, without being represented by counsel, Mr. Taylor completed an appeal form and checked a box marked "I want to continue getting medical assistance until the hearing" and hand-wrote an additional statement that "All services must remain as they are pending a final decision" (attached and incorporated as Exhibit 8). On March 3, 2020, ADHS received the appeal form at the e-mail address specified on the form.

111. On March 2, 2020, Mr. Taylor's care aide came and informed him she had to leave early and start a new care schedule because, effective March 1, ADHS authorized Mr. Taylor to receive only 86.75 hours per month of care. Mr. Taylor did not know this beforehand and had no time to plan. Mr. Taylor received no more than 86.75 hours per month from then until May 20, 2020, at which time ADHS restored Mr. Taylor's care to 137 monthly hours after being contacted by Legal Aid of Arkansas on his behalf.

112. Because of the reduced care hours, Mr. Taylor's care aide was not consistently present at noon and 6 p.m. to remind him about his required medicines and injections. As a result, Mr. Taylor missed doses of his medicines and insulin injections. The missed colitis medications resulted in several days at a time of constant vomiting, inability to excrete, and accompanying weakness. Often, the only nutrition he could keep down were packaged nutrition shakes like Ensure. The missed prostate medications resulted in the inability to void his bladder for several days and extreme pain when he managed to do so. The missed insulin injections resulted in varying blood sugar levels, accompanying drowsiness, and risk of diabetic coma or insulin shock. From March 1 to May 20, 2020, Mr. Taylor generally felt sick and weak due to missed medications, leaving him largely unable to hold down food, often unable to transfer into or out of bed, and stuck with the smell of vomit in his clothes and sheets.

113. Because of the reduced care hours, Mr. Taylor was unable to take daily baths, which help him stay clean and reduce the pain in his hips and legs. During the period with reduced care hours, he attempted to get himself into the bathtub unassisted, fell, and cracked a rib. With the cracked rib, Mr. Taylor could no longer transfer himself in and out of bed at all, forcing him to sleep on a couch, where he slept poorly.

114. Because of the reduced care hours, the aide did not have enough time to perform all the household chores, which forced Mr. Taylor to live in a dirtier house.

115. Because of the reduced care hours, the aide did not have enough time to prepare hot and nutritious meals for Mr. Taylor. As a result, when he could hold down food, the food was often simple and less nutritious cold food.

116. Mr. Taylor does not have anyone available to provide care voluntarily, and he did not have anyone available to voluntarily provide the additional care needed voluntarily from March 1 to May 20, 2020.

117. He could not afford to privately pay for the care he needed from March 1 to May 20, 2020.

118. Pursuant to Mr. Taylor's March 3, 2020 appeal, ADHS scheduled an administrative hearing for June 2, 2020. The hearing was continued and is now set for August 24, 2020, at 1 p.m.

119. The administrative hearing does not encompass questions about the agency's violation of constitutional due process obligations to furnish continuing benefits pending the outcome of the hearing.

120. The administrative hearing officer does not have jurisdiction to decide issues arising under the United States Constitution or grant the relief requested here.

121. ADHS will assess Mr. Taylor using the same ARIA assessment tool and related algorithms currently in effect. ADHS has no plans to materially change the eligibility determination or service allocation processes presently in use. Thus, whatever the outcome of the administrative hearing, Mr. Taylor faces a certain reduction of services at the next assessment and service plan determination.

122. When ADHS next takes an adverse action against Mr. Taylor, ADHS will use substantially the same failed process for continuing benefits pending appeal.

VII. ADHS's MANAGEMENT STRUCTURE AS RELATED TO ARCHOICES

123. ADHS has nine divisions and five offices. Those most relevant to this lawsuit are the Division of Aging, Adult, and Behavioral Health Services (DAABHS), the Division of Provider Services and Quality Assurance (DPSQA), and the Office of Chief Counsel (OCC).

Secretary of ADHS

124. Defendant Gillespie is the Secretary of ADHS and has ultimate supervisorial responsibilities over all aspects of ADHS, including Arkansas's Medicaid program. See Ark. Code Ann. §§ 25-10-101; 25-10-102(c)(1)(A); 25-10-106. She has been ADHS's director from February 2016 to present.

125. In June 2016, Gillespie issued a memorandum to ADHS staff that she was undertaking a reorganization of DHS to centralize oversight because "the DHS Director has no consistent visibility into the core business functions of the agency and no clarity on accountability and responsibility."

126. In September 2016, Gillespie hired Dennis Smith to serve as Special Adviser on Medicaid. Smith has at least weekly communications with Gillespie to advise and inform her about all aspects of the state's Medicaid program, including ARChoices.

127. Based on ADHS procedures, Gillespie must approve all policies or rules that require promulgation under the Arkansas Administrative Procedure Act, Ark. Code Ann. § 25-15-201 et seq. Before Gillespie approves a policy or rule requiring promulgation, the director of the responsible division or office and the director of the Office of Chief Counsel must approve it. ADHS Administrative Procedures Manual § 906; ADHS Policy § 3000.<sup>11</sup>

128. For policies that do not require promulgation, Gillespie must approve any policy that applies to more than one division or office. Id. The process has four steps:

(a) First, the director of the Office of Chief Counsel must approve the policy at issue.

(b) Second, the policy proceeds to an executive committee for review. Sterling has been a member of this committee from 2015 to present. Cloud was a member of this committee from 2015 to his departure from ADHS in August 2019, after which time Sharum joined. White has been a member of this committee from February 2018 to present.

(c) Third, the policy goes to the Policy Review Committee, the members of which Gillespie designates, for review and recommendations about approval. Gillespie designated Dennis Smith, Sterling, and, until his departure from ADHS, Cloud as Policy Review Committee members. Gillespie assigned White to the Policy Review Committee

<sup>11</sup> The Administrative Procedures Manual does not appear to be available online. ADHS Policy § 3000 summarizes APM § 906—but does not restate it—and is available at <https://humanservices.arkansas.gov/images/uploads/policies/DHS%20Policy%203000.pdf>.

no later than October 2019. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Gillespie designated him in February 2018.

(d) Fourth, Gillespie approves it.

129. Gillespie holds monthly executive meetings attended by the directors of all divisions and offices and some deputy directors. Gillespie holds monthly meetings with directors and senior staff of individual divisions and offices. Between meetings, Gillespie communicates with directors and senior staff about other issues of importance to ADHS, including about significant projects. In addition, Gillespie receives weekly updates from the communications department that include any media stories about ADHS.

130. Gillespie drafts and maintains a document called “DHS Goals” that lists and tracks the progress of each division’s or office’s goals over the course of a year. The document lists milestones for each goal, milestone dates, notes for each goal, status for each goal, and a monthly report for each goal. Gillespie updates the chart every month with information she receives from each division.

131. In her official capacity, Gillespie was the defendant in Jacobs v. Gillespie, 3:16-cv-119-DPM (E.D. Ark. Nov. 1, 2016), in which Judge Marshall ruled that ADHS provided constitutionally deficient notice to ARChoices beneficiaries facing adverse actions under the assessment and allocation methodologies in effect at that time.

132. In her official and individual capacity, Gillespie has been a defendant in the present action since May 23, 2019, when Ms. Elder first filed suit alleging that the Defendants deprived her of the constitutional right to continuing services pending resolution of her appeal. Gillespie was also named as a defendant in her official and individual capacity when Dearmore filed her separate suit on February 24, 2020.

133. Gillespie asks Defendant Sterling for updates on any significant litigation in which ADHS is involved, including Jacobs, Elder, and Ledgerwood v. ADHS, 60CV-17-442 (Pulaski County Circuit Court, May 14, 2018), in which the court invalidated the then-existing service allocation methodology for ARChoices for not following notice-and-comment requirements of Arkansas's Administrative Procedures Act.

Division of Aging, Adult, and Behavioral Health Services

134. Prior to about October 2017, there was a Division of Aging and Adult Services and a separate of Division of Behavioral Health Services, which were then merged into DAABHS. Craig Cloud was the DAAS Director until the merger, at which time he became the Director of the newly-formed Division of Provider Services and Quality Assurances. Prior to October 2017, DAAS exercised sole control over operation of the ARChoices program.

135. Since October 2017, operation of the ARChoices Medicaid program is shared between DAABHS and DPSQA. Operation of the ARChoices Medicaid program includes, among other activities, managing the assessment and service allocation processes, managing ADHS's nurses involved in the ARChoices program, maintaining appropriate staffing levels, managing ARChoices-related appeals and hearings, setting state policy with respect to ARChoices, insuring compliance with federal laws, interfacing with the federal Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services that oversees state Medicaid programs, coordinating with other ADHS divisions or offices as needed, setting licensing standards for Medicaid providers, and managing relationships with and providing information to Medicaid providers.

136. Jay Hill has been DAABHS Director from approximately October 2017 to present. From October 2017 to February 2018, Hill did not assert supervisory authority over ARChoices. During that time, DPSQA Director Cloud exercised sole supervisory authority over ARChoices.

In February 2018, Mark White became DAABHS's Deputy Director and assumed DAABHS's supervisory responsibility over the operation of ARChoices. White shared supervisory authority over ARChoices with Cloud from February 2018 until August 2019, when Cloud left ADHS, and with Jerald Sharum, Cloud's replacement, until White left his role as DAABHS deputy director in October 2019. From October 2019 to present, supervisory authority over ARChoices has been shared by Sharum and current DAABHS Deputy Director Patricia Gann. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, White continued to have supervisory responsibility over the operation of ARChoices through November 2019 as Gann transitioned into the role of deputy director.

137. From 2016 through February 2018, Cloud communicated daily about ARChoices, including appeals, policy, staffing, and oversight issues, with his direct subordinate, DAAS and later DAABHS Assistant Director Stephenie Blocker. From February 2018 to August 2019, Cloud communicated with Blocker about ARChoices program issues at least once per week. From February 2018 to October 2019, White communicated daily with Blocker about ARChoices program issues.

138. As DAABHS Deputy Director, White communicated daily with the DPSQA Director—first Cloud, then Sharum—about ARChoices program issues.

139. Every month from 2016 through February 2018, DAABHS staff members provided written reports about information technology, policy and program development, and appeals to Cloud. Starting in February 2018, those written reports were provided to White. The appeals and hearings report includes information about the number of appeals, the outcome of appeals, and the number of assessments resulting in termination or denial of services.

140. As DAAS Director, Cloud attended Gillespie's monthly executive team meetings. White has attended the executive team meetings since February 2018 as DAABHS Deputy Director and later as Gillespie's chief of staff. Apart from those meetings, White has informed her of all significant issues with ARChoices, including the new assessment system, the high number of appeals, and the failure to continue benefits.

141. Cloud as DAAS Director and White as DAABHS Deputy Director set the yearly goals for DAAS and DAABHS as related to the ARChoices program and communicated about ARChoices program operations with Gillespie. Significantly, one 2017 goal was "Implement Aging Transformation Rule Change," which referred to the development and implementation of the current system for ARChoices assessment and service allocation. This goal listed the Office of Chief Counsel as another necessary division to be involved.

142. White was not initially named as a defendant when Ms. Elder first filed suit on May 23, 2019, but he was added in his official and individual capacities pursuant to Ms. Elder's amended complaint. (Elder Dkt. 25, 26). Dearmore named him as a defendant in his official and individual capacities when she filed suit on February 24, 2020.

Division of Provider Services and Quality Assurance

143. DPSQA shares responsibility for the operation of ARChoices with DAABHS.

144. DPSQA has direct oversight responsibility of Medicaid providers, including those who provide personal care and attendant care. The DPSQA director communicates regularly with ARChoices providers about their clients whose services have been reduced or terminated. The DPSQA director oversees the Office of Long-Term Care, which makes ARChoices eligibility decisions. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, the DPSQA director oversees the prior authorization and billing processes to ensure that providers are paid only for the ARChoices services that ADHS has authorized.

145. As DPSQA director, Cloud attended Gillespie's monthly executive team meetings, set DPSQA's yearly goals related to the ARChoices program, and communicated about ARChoices program operations with Gillespie. Gillespie designed Cloud to be a member of the Policy Review Committee. Sharum has replaced Cloud in all of these roles since becoming DPSQA director in August 2019.

146. Cloud was named as a defendant in the present action in his official and individual capacity when Ms. Elder first filed suit on May 23, 2019. After Cloud's departure in August 2019, the Defendants substituted Sharum for Cloud as an official capacity defendant. (Elder Dkt. 24). The claim against Cloud in his official capacity did not change. Cloud was not named as a defendant in Dearmore's suit.

Office of Chief Counsel

147. The director of the Office of Chief Counsel (previously titled the Office of Policy and Legal Services) is responsible for the creation of agency policies, assuring compliance with the policies, and providing legal advice and services to the agency. The director oversees ADHS's legal representation, policy drafting, and civil rights compliance. The director also oversees ADHS's Office of Appeals and Hearings, which manages administrative adjudications. Defendant Sterling has been the director of OCC since approximately February 2015.

148. Sterling attends Gillespie's monthly executive team meetings, sets OCC's goals, and communicates with her regularly regarding OCC's operations.

149. Before any policy proceeds to Gillespie for ultimate approval—whether it requires promulgation or not—Sterling must review and approve it as Chief Counsel. In addition, Gillespie designated Sterling as the chairperson of ADHS's Policy Review Committee, which must review and approve internal ADHS policies that affect more than one division or office. Sterling sends a report from the Policy Review Committee to Gillespie and meets with her in person to review policies prior to Gillespie approving them.

150. Every month, Sterling sends a report from OCC to Gillespie that shows the number of appeals pending and workloads from the General Counsel Section and OAH. In addition, Sterling regularly sends Gillespie internal reports from various divisions across DHS and updates about proposed federal laws or policy changes.

151. Sterling informs Gillespie about any significant litigation involving ADHS, including the Jacobs, Ledgerwood, Elder, and Dearmore cases.

152. Sterling has direct supervisorial responsibility over Defendant Rosen and the General Counsel Section managed by Rosen. The General Counsel Section provides legal assistance, advice, and representation to the various divisions within the Department, including in administrative hearings and federal and state court litigation. The General Counsel Section regularly provides advice and direction to the divisions on legal questions involving personnel issues, Medicaid, and other program matters.

153. Sterling has direct supervisorial responsibility over the Office of Appeals and Hearings. The Office of Appeals and Hearings receives ARChoices beneficiaries' requests for appeals, schedules and conducts appeal hearings, informs implicated divisions or office about hearings, and issues hearing decisions.

154. Every month, Sterling receives a report from the General Counsel Section and, separately, from OAH that includes the number of cases being handled, staffing levels, and other issues.

155. Sterling appears as the agency's counsel of record in court proceedings, including in Jacobs and Ledgerwood.

156. Sterling has been a defendant in his official and individual capacities in Elder since the complaint was first filed on May 23, 2019. Dearmore also named him as a defendant in his official and individual capacities when she filed suit on February 24, 2020.

157. Defendant Rosen is the Managing Attorney of the General Counsel Section with ADHS's Office of Chief Counsel and has been in this role since at least 2015. He reports to Defendant Sterling. He has direct supervisory responsibility over the ADHS attorneys assigned to appeal hearings and advises various agency divisions. In addition, Mr. Rosen appears as ADHS's counsel of record in court proceedings, including in Jacobs and Ledgerwood.

158. Rosen has been a defendant in his official and individual capacities in Elder since the complaint was first filed on May 23, 2019. Dearmore also named him as a defendant in his official and individual capacities when she filed suit on February 24, 2020.

159. Rosen communicates at least weekly with Sterling regarding the operations of the General Counsel Section and sends him the monthly General Counsel Section report.

160. From 2016 to present, Rosen has communications about ARChoices at least once per week with the DAAS director, DAABHS deputy director, or DPSQA director to discuss ARChoices program rules, appeals, and notices, including, on May 31, 2017, directing that a DAAS employee start testifying in administrative hearings about the reasons for reductions in beneficiaries' ARChoices services.

VIII. DEVELOPMENT OF PRESENT ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

161. While the ArPath assessment system and RUGs service allocation methodology were in effect—January 1, 2016, through May 14, 2018, and around October 8, 2018, to December 31, 2018—ADHS considered shifting to a different assessment and allocation system.

162. Cindy Gillespie designated Dennis Smith, ADHS’s Special Adviser on Medicaid, to act on her behalf for all matters relating to the consideration, development, and implementation of a new independent assessment system for ARChoices and other programs ADHS administers.

163. On October 4, 2016, Smith sent Gillespie and Cloud an email discussing different systems for conducting assessments for ARChoices and other programs ADHS administers.

164. On October 25, 2016, Gillespie, Sterling, and Cloud received an email with the draft Request for Proposals to solicit bids from prospective contractors to implement a new assessment system for ARChoices and other ADHS programs. Gillespie, Sterling, and Cloud each had received, reviewed, and approved previous drafts of the document. The document specifies that ADHS will coordinate administrative hearings and that successful bidders must participate in appeals, administrative hearings, and other legal proceedings regarding assessment results and the reduction or denial of services. The document also specifies that the bidder must have a database about assessment notices to be shared with ADHS.

165. On January 16, 2017, Gillespie sent Sterling and Cloud a document called “2017 Goals” that listed “Implement Aging Transformation Rule Change.” That document listed DAAS as the lead agency, July 1 as the expected completion date, OCC as another division involved in the process, contract review as the next milestone, and various technological and regulatory changes that needed to be implemented with no specified date.

166. Pursuant to the Request for Proposal issued in 2016, ADHS chose Optum for the independent assessment contract in early 2017.

167. On May 30, 2017, Cloud sent Smith revisions on the draft concept paper to explain ADHS's new assessment system for ARChoices and other ADHS programs.

168. On June 12, 2017, Smith sent Sterling the concept paper to explain ADHS's new assessment system and wrote, "David, this might be helpful to you to prepare for Wednesday review of Optum contract...Am happy to discuss with you as well."

169. On August 13, 2017, Gillespie authorized the implementation of the Optum-based independent assessment system as part of ADHS's governor-approved strategic plan for the 2018-2019 fiscal year. She sent the documents via email to all executive staff, including Sterling, who forwarded it to Rosen, among others. The email stated the following:

All of you will see a new item on your initiative plan for this year - establishing monthly operations reports, baselines for performance, targets and tracking. Over the next month, we will roll this initiative out DHS-wide so everyone can take on this area in a standardized fashion. So don't worry about what you will have to do on this initiative yet - we will provide guidance and assistance shortly. We'll discuss this more at Monday's executive session.

170. After ADHS contracted with Optum, Cloud, Sterling, and Gillespie, acting at times through Dennis Smith, oversaw implementation of the new independent assessment system. Starting in February 2018, White joined the others in overseeing implementation of the new independent assessment system. Their actions include the following:

(a) Throughout 2017 and 2018, Cloud and, once he became DAABHS deputy director, White had multiple communications per week with Optum to decide issues regarding implementation of the assessment system, including assessment questions, eligibility criteria, criteria for setting Individual Service Budgets, development of the Task and Hour Standards, and intra-agency processes needed for implementation.

(b) In July 2017, Cloud directed the initial development of eligibility criteria and tier logic.

(c) From August 2017 onward, Cloud was a member of the Independent Assessment Management Committee composed of ADHS staff, Optum, and consultants that met every week to decide issues of concern regarding the new assessment process, including notices, appeals, and eligibility criteria. On information and belief, White became a member of the Independent Assessment Management Committee once he became DAABHS deputy director.

(d) Cloud authorized intra-agency processes regarding the assessments, including in December 2018 and January 2019 in response to lack of coordination between Optum, DAABHS, and DPSQA.

(e) White authorized Optum and other consultants to implement changes to eligibility criteria and tier logic on December 20, 2018—just 12 days before the new assessment system was to go into effect—and February 13, 2019.

(f) White drafted, revised, and authorized proposed ARChoices policy manuals regarding the new assessment system and related documents for promulgation and the federal ARChoices waiver application for submission to the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). Smith and Cloud reviewed all such documents and provided relevant information prior to and during the promulgation and federal approve processes, including on November 10, 2018, and December 12, 2018. White and Cloud directly received written approval from CMS on December 27, 2018, which White then immediately transmitted to Smith.

(g) Sterling initially approved proposed ARChoices policy manuals regarding the new assessment system and related documents for promulgation. Sterling later reviewed the relevant ARChoices documents for promulgation as chair of the Policy Review Committee, which reviewed and recommended that Gillespie approve the documents sometime in the summer of 2018.

(h) Gillespie directly approved all documents needed for promulgation of the independent assessment system for ARChoices in August or September 2018.

(i) Smith, a former CMS official, organized and participated in telephone meetings with CMS to facilitate approval of the new assessment system, including on December 17, 2018.

(j) Cloud and White represented ADHS during the promulgation process for the new assessment system, including in five public meetings between October 7, 2018, and November 7, 2018, and in hearings before legislative committees on December 10, 18, and 20, 2018. White drafted responses to public comments. On December 20, 2018, White asked that Cloud and Smith review and approve a document called Setting the Record Straight to persuade the legislature to approve the new assessment system.

(k) ADHS's communications team enlisted Smith and White to respond to media questions about the new assessment system, including on December 5, 2018.

IX. CERTAINTY OF INCREASED APPEALS

171. Gillespie, Cloud, White, Sterling, and Rosen knew that the change of the ARChoices assessment and care allocation system on January 1, 2019, would cause high numbers of appeals.

172. ADHS saw a spike in appeals when it last significantly changed the ARChoices assessment and service allocation system upon implementing the RUGs algorithm-based system on January 1, 2016. In 2014 and 2015 combined, ADHS received about 328 appeals relating to the predecessor programs to ARChoices.<sup>12</sup> In 2016 and 2017 combined, ADHS received at least 529 appeals regarding ARChoices, an increase of 61%.

173. With respect to ARChoices during 2016, 2017, and 2018:

(a) Sterling received monthly appeals reports from OAH and the General Counsel Section detailing the number of appeals.

(b) Sterling and Rosen provided ARChoices appeal numbers to counsel in discovery in September or October 2016 as part of the Jacobs litigation. Cloud served as the agency's representative in the Jacobs litigation

(c) Cloud received DAAS appeals reports every month detailing the number of ARChoices appeals and the number of assessments resulting in denial or termination of services. Cloud held weekly DAAS division review meetings with Blocker and other DAAS management staff to discuss staffing levels, budget issues, and program operations, including discussion of ARChoices appeals. Cloud learned from Blocker that appeals were burdening staff resources and delaying other program work, including around April 11, 2016, and September 1, 2016. Cloud learned from Blocker around June 15, 2017, that the DAAS nurses believed that the appeals process needed to be updated to lessen the burden on them.

<sup>12</sup> Prior to 2016, ADHS operated two home- and community-based services programs for beneficiaries who had disabilities or were elderly: Alternatives for Adults with Physical Disabilities (AAPD) for people under 65 and Elder Choices for people 65 and older. These programs were combined into ARChoices.

(d) Once White joined ADHS as DAABHS deputy director in February 2018, he received DAAS appeal reports every month detailing the number of ARChoices appeals and the number of assessments resulting in denial or termination of services. He also held weekly DAAS division review meetings to discuss staffing levels, budget issues, and program operations, including discussion of ARChoices appeals and resulting burdens on staff.

(e) The increase in appeals caused DAAS/DAABHS to delay reviewing cases involving appeals, delayed completion of paperwork, computer entry, and intra-agency communication relevant to maintaining ARChoices services for people appealing, delayed producing information to the General Counsel Section for inclusion in hearing files, and delayed informing care agencies and/or PALCO about continuing benefits. Cloud and White knew about these delays.

(f) Rosen monitored case levels of attorneys under his direct supervision and noted that the number of ARChoices appeals was significantly higher than in past years. As a result of the increased ARChoices appeals, General Counsel Section attorneys delayed reviewing new appeal files, delayed collecting information from other relevant divisions or units needed to prepare for a hearing, and produced appeal hearing files to hearing officers and opposing parties later than requested or normal. Rosen also learned of the staff burden of increased appeals from OCC employee Kitten Dixon, who wrote on June 10,

2016, that her duties included, among other things, “assign and coordinate Appeals and Hearings cases for 8 attorneys about 75 cases a month” and “calendar, tracking, continuing, getting hearing files disbursed.”

(g) Rosen informed Sterling of the increased caseloads and the resulting delays. Sterling also learned of the staff burden of increased appeals from OCC employee, Kitten Dixon, who wrote on February 16, 2017, that she had “many many emails” about “personnel issues,...hiring issues for all of OCC, reports,...hearing cases questions, [and]...assigning EJJ and Circuit cases...”

(h) Television station KARK investigated ADHS’s use of the RUGs algorithm and aired its three-part series in November 2017.<sup>13</sup> Cloud represented the agency in interviews with Gillespie’s approval and was quoted as saying, among other things, “Each person has the opportunity to an objective, fair appeal hearing.”<sup>14</sup>

(i) On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Gillespie received information about the high number of ARChoices appeals from Smith, Sterling, Cloud, and, once he joined ADHS as DAABHS deputy director, White.

174. Prior to implementation of the ARChoices assessment system on January 1, 2019, Cloud, Gillespie, Rosen, Sterling, and White knew that the new system predicted reductions in services that would give rise to appeal rights:

<sup>14</sup> <https://www.kark.com/news/working-4-you-explaining-the-formula-for-care-claimed-to-cause-cuts-to-needy/>

(a) The concept paper referenced in Paragraphs 167 and 168 states that one purpose of the independent assessment system was to “help generate $835 million in budgetary savings” in part “by targeting resources most appropriately across the aging...population[],” which refers to people on the ARChoices program. These statements assumed a reduction in the number of ARChoices beneficiaries and/or the amount of services beneficiaries would receive. Smith drafted this document with review or revisions by Cloud on May 30, 2017, and, on information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Gillespie and Sterling.

(b) A document called “Arkansas LTSS Transformation Overview draft” produced before October 2018 states there is a “reduction of 10% of remaining Attendant Care hours was included due to a new definition of Attendant Care.” The reduction of attendant care hours is an adverse action granting beneficiaries appeal rights. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Cloud, White, and Smith drafted, reviewed, or approved this document.

(c) A document called “ARChoices Expenditures Work File draft” produced before October 2018 shows that at least 1,641 existing ARChoices beneficiaries—19%—would certainly face a reduction in services solely due to the state’s imposition of Individual Service Budgets (described in Paragraph 36). Based on the document, as many as 2,630 more beneficiaries could face a reduction in services solely due to the imposition of Individual Service Budgets. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Cloud, White, and Smith drafted, reviewed, or approved this document and informed Gillespie about the potential adverse impact on beneficiaries.

(d) The notice of rule-making issued on October 7, 2018, about the changes to the ARChoices assessment and allocation processes states that “DHS estimates that the proposed changes outlined above are expected to result in a net decreased in aggregate Medicaid expenditures of $9.27 million in State Fiscal Year 2019 and $13.92 million in State Fiscal Year 2020.” These statements assumed a reduction in the number of ARChoices beneficiaries and/or the amount of services beneficiaries would receive. White, Cloud, and Smith drafted, reviewed, and authorized this document. Gillespie and Sterling approved the promulgation in August or September 2018.

(e) The notice of rule-making issued on October 7, 2018, about the changes to the ARChoices assessment and allocation processes states the following:

Taken together, all of the proposed changes outlined above will impact beneficiaries. Individual beneficiaries may see an increase or reduction in the amount, level, duration, frequency, type, and mix of services available to them, or their services may remain the same. Initial or continued eligibility for or enrollment in the ARChoices...program[]...may be positively or adversely affected in individual cases.

White, Cloud, and Smith drafted, reviewed, and authorized this document. Gillespie and Sterling approved the promulgation in August or September 2018.

(f) As part of the promulgation of the new ARChoices assessment system, White and Cloud represented ADHS before the state legislature on December 10, December 18, and December 20, 2018. During those meetings, White or Cloud told the legislature that the appeals process was a safeguard for beneficiaries who face adverse actions. Sterling attended at least one of these meetings. Gillespie monitored the approval process and received updates from White, Cloud, and Sterling.

175. In 2018, having not yet implemented the new assessment system for ARChoices, ADHS had implemented new assessment systems to determine eligibility and service allocation levels for Medicaid beneficiaries seeking personal care services (separate from ARChoices), behavioral health services, and services for individuals with developmental disabilities as part of a new managed-care enterprise titled Provider-led Arkansas Shared Savings Entities (PASSE). In 2018, decisions based on those assessments generated 866 appeals, an increase of at least 300 over the previous year. Cloud, Rosen, Smith, Sterling, and White monitored the appeals numbers. In 2018, Cloud, Smith, and Sterling informed Gillespie about the number of appeals as part of her oversight of the PASSE program and the related independent assessment system.

176. After implementing the present ARChoices assessment system on January 1, 2019, Cloud, Gillespie, Rosen, Sterling, and White knew that the new ARChoices assessment system caused significant numbers of appeals:

(a) Every month from January 2019 to present, White, even after he changed roles in October 2019, and Cloud, until he left ADHS in August 2019, received a monthly report from Optum showing the number of ARChoices appeals.

(b) On June 3, 2019, ADHS reported to the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette that 27% of ARChoices beneficiaries assessed under the new system were found to be ineligible.<sup>15</sup> At that time, White was reported as noting in an email that “recipients found to be ineligible can file an administrative appeal.”

(c) On June 12, 2019, the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette quoted an ADHS spokesperson as stating that the agency has “continued to see the number of eligibility denials for existing clients increase.”<sup>16</sup>

(d) On July 9, 2019, White presented about the new assessment system to the Senate Committee on Children and Youth and the House Committee on Aging, Children and Youth, Legislative and Military Affairs meeting jointly.<sup>17</sup> In that presentation, accompanied by a powerpoint,<sup>18</sup> White stated that beneficiaries can appeal and ask for services to continue while appeals are pending. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Gillespie, Smith, Sterling, and/or Cloud reviewed the presentation, offered input, and approved it.

(e) Subsequent to the July 9 hearing, oversight of the ARChoices assessment system was referred to the Arkansas Legislative Council’s Review Subcommittee. Starting in September 2019, White submits a report to the subcommittee every month showing the number of appeals and other statistics. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Gillespie, Smith, Sterling, and/or Sharum review the report, offer input, and approve it.

(f) On July 17, 2019 and August 19, 2019, Gillespie, Sterling, and Rosen received a monthly report from OCC on appeals stating, “Appeals are extremely high due to the Independent Assessment surge.”

177. ADHS received 497 appeals relating to ARChoices in 2019.

X. REPEATED FAILURE TO CONTINUE BENEFITS PENDING APPEAL

178. Between 2016 and present, ADHS has engaged in a pattern and practice of failing to continue ARChoices benefits where beneficiaries appeal adverse agency decisions within 10 days from the notice of action.

179. The approximately 30 beneficiaries identified in Paragraph 180 and attached exhibits actually appealed adverse actions within 10 days, requested continuing services pending appeal, and improperly had their services reduced or terminated.

180. ADHS repeatedly received allegations that the agency had failed to continue ARChoices services despite timely appeals<sup>19</sup>:

(a) On April 8, 2016, Legal Aid of Arkansas e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. The email mentioned constitutional due process. On April 11, 2016, Rosen responded that the beneficiary “is being reinstated for continuation of services pending appeal.” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 9.

(b) On April 15, 2016, Legal Aid of Arkansas e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 10.

(c) On April 27, 2016, Legal Aid of Arkansas e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. Legal Aid “would highly recommend the agency immediately institute measures to guarantee that individuals who file fair hearing requests within 10 days of receipt of notice of adverse action have their service levels maintained at the pre-adverse action levels.” This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 11.

<sup>19</sup> The complaint uses the phrase “timely appeal” and variations thereof as shorthand for an appeal filed within 10 days from the date on the notice of action.

(d) On July 28, 2016, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 12.

(e) On September 23, 2016, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of four beneficiaries who appealed adverse actions within 10 days. This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 13.

(f) On September 26, 2016, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of ten beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 14.

(g) On October 5, 2016, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS nurses were discouraging ARChoices beneficiaries from exercising their rights to maintain services pending an appeal. This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 15.

(h) From November 1, 2016 through approximately January 31, 2017, ADHS suspended all adverse actions against ARChoices beneficiaries due to the Jacobs ruling,

(i) On April 12, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. Rosen responded that he “instructed DAAS to restore the hours pending the hearing...” Additionally, Legal Aid contended that a process to maintain services would be beneficial and that “it would certainly work better for everyone if DHS met its obligations without requiring clients to contact an attorney to then contact a DHS attorney.” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 16.

(j) On June 21, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of two beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. Additionally, Legal Aid “encourage[d] the agency to improve the communications between its various employees to ensure that reductions are not implemented before the 10 days from the date of the notice of action” because, “[i]n the majority of our clients’ cases, reductions are implemented immediately after a plan of care is finalized and sent to the provider....” Legal Aid contended that it was “available to consult with the agency to ensure that it meets its obligations under relevant Medicaid and constitutional law.” On June 22, 2017, Rosen responded that “the care agencies have been advised to continue the recipients’ hours.” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 17.

(k) On June 23, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of six beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. Legal Aid wrote that it “would hope the agency implements a system-wide resolution to this issue sooner rather than later.” This email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 18.

(l) On July 14, 2017, Legal Aid phoned Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. On July 17, 2017, Rosen responded via email that “...DAAS advised PALCO to restore the care plan” pending the beneficiary’s appeal. These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 19.

(m) On July 21, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen asking that he ensure that ADHS not reduce the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. Rosen responded that he “forwarded [the] email to DAAS and...will confirm continuation of services pending appeal” on the next business day. These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 20.

(n) On July 27, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that a beneficiary’s ARChoices services had not been restored despite a timely appeal request on May 11, 2017, and an email to Rosen on June 23, 2017. On July 28, 2017, an ADHS attorney under Rosen’s supervisory authority, Nicholas Windle, stated that the beneficiary’s ARChoices services were restored on July 7, 2017. On August 9, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that the beneficiary’s ARChoices services had still not been restored. On August 15, 2017, Windle admitted that there was an “issue” with PALCO. On September 2, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that the beneficiary’s ARChoices services were still not restored despite the earlier requests. On September 6, 2017, Rosen responded that “DAAS confirmed that the hours are restored....” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 21.

(o) On August 10, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen and Sterling with a letter attached and explicitly requested that they forward the letter to Defendant Gillespie and other ADHS officials. The letter’s purpose was “so that all relevant stakeholders may be fully aware of our clients’ positions and our overall willingness to again attempt amicable resolution.” Legal Aid contended that there were various problems with ARChoices, including the following:

(1) Premature Reduction of Services. Clients who appeal within 10 days of the notice of action do not have their services maintained at pre-reduction levels as required by federal regulations, even with explicit requests to do so. While Mr. Rosen has been helpful in restoring the hours of those clients whose services were prematurely reduced, his involvement required correspondence from a Legal Aid attorney after the Department failed to take note of an explicit request in the appeal paperwork. If the agency's system for tracking appeals is not working well for program participants with an attorney, one can only imagine the adverse effects on unrepresented individuals. DHS should adopt new internal procedures for appeals so that DAAS nurses do not forward the Person Centered Service Plan to Palco or agency providers until 15 days have elapsed from the date the notice of adverse action is sent. Relatedly, OAH should coordinate with DAAS to ensure that nurses are promptly made aware of all appeals so that they do not implement a reduction for a beneficiary who appealed within 10 days.

The email and letter are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 22.

(p) On August 16, 2017, Rosen e-mailed Legal Aid that he “reviewed your letter and forwarded it to my client” and “expect[s] to meet with DAAS about your letter.”

The email is attached and incorporated as Exhibit 23.

(q) Rosen and Sterling responded to the August 10, 2017 letter with a letter and follow-up emails, none of which addressed the premature reduction of services.

(r) On September 2, 2017, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of a beneficiary who appealed an adverse action within 10 days and asked that ADHS “please work out a functioning system so that people who appeal within 10 days get to keep the pre-reduction services to which they are entitled....” On September 6, 2017, Rosen responded that “DAAS has confirmed that the hours are restored....” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 24.

(s) On January 10, 2018, Legal Aid e-mailed Rosen contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of two beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. On January 11, 2018, Rosen responded that the services “are reinstated or continuing at their prior level.” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 25.

(t) Between May 14, 2018, and October 8, 2018, ADHS initiated no adverse actions based on functional assessments for ARChoices due to litigation invalidating the allocation methodology in effect at that time. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, from October 8 to December 31, 2018, ADHS did not terminate or reduce the services of any ARChoices beneficiary based on functional assessments.

(u) On March 12, 2019, Legal Aid of Arkansas e-mailed Rosen and White contending that ADHS had not maintained the ARChoices services of six beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days. On March 13, 2019, Rosen responded that five of the beneficiaries’ services were continued without stopping but that one had “services stopped for an unknown reason but was reinstated effective today.” These e-mails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 26.

(v) On April 22, 2019, Legal Aid of Arkansas e-mailed Rosen and White contending that ADHS had not maintained the services of one of the five beneficiaries whose services Rosen claimed had been continued without stopping in the March 13 e-mail. Legal Aid noted that “DHS’s failure to provide continuing eligibility for all services for which an ARChoices client qualifies would be a deprivation of due process and a violation of 42 CFR 431.230.” On April 24, 2019, Legal Aid e-mailed them again, noting that issue had not been fixed and that Legal Aid “has repeatedly informed DHS of problems with the agency’s obligations to continue benefit eligibility pending appeal.” Legal Aid also asked ADHS, “How do you intend to fix the problem of services not being continued pending appeal?” These emails are attached and incorporated as Exhibit 27.

181. On September 11, 2017, DAAS/DAABHS employee Mitchell Harlan wrote Rosen that “the two biggest obstacles to fixing our 10 day [sic] notice issue were...logistics of delaying the effect of the plan of care, and knowing when the clock started upon receipt of the hearing request.”

182. On May 23, 2019, Ginger Elder filed a lawsuit against Cloud, Gillespie, Rosen, and Sterling alleging that her benefits were terminated despite timely appeal. In responsive filings, ADHS admitted that “Elder’s benefits were mistakenly discontinued.” (Elder Dkt. 11, p. 26-27). ADHS stated that the termination was “wholly inadvertent” and that, in the matter most favorable to Ms. Elder, the allegations only “arguably demonstrate negligence.” (Id., p. 15). Having reinstated Ms. Elder’s benefits after receiving notice of the lawsuit, ADHS then argued that “there is no ongoing alleged violation” and that Ms. Elder’s complaint should be dismissed for lack of standing.

183. On July 25, 2019, ADHS issued a notice of action and person-centered service plan reducing the combined monthly personal and attendant care hours of Washington County ARChoices beneficiary D.M. from 94 to 85. On August 1, 2019, D.M. faxed a letter of appeal to OAH and asked that his benefits “be continued at the pre-reduction level pending the outcome of the appeal.” Starting August 5, 2019, D.M. received only 85 care hours per month. Because Legal Aid e-mailed Ashley Fisher, the assigned ADHS attorney, on D.M.’s behalf on December 13, 2019, and January 3, 2020, ADHS restored his hours on January 6, 2020.

184. On November 22, 2019, ADHS issued a notice of action terminating the ARChoices eligibility of Baxter County resident M.G. and stating that her services would stop on January 2, 2020. On November 27, 2019, M.G. faxed a letter of appeal to OAH stating, “I also elect to continue to receive ARChoices Waiver Medicaid Benefits and Services while the appeal is pending.” Starting January 3, 2020, M.G. received no Medicaid services, including ARChoices in-home care. Because Legal Aid contacted ADHS on her behalf on January 6, 2020, ADHS restored her ARChoices on January 7, 2020.

185. Around November 24, 2019, ADHS issued a notice of action terminating the ARChoices eligibility of Clay County resident J.D. and stating that her services would stop on December 4, 2019. Within 10 days, J.D. sent a letter of appeal to OAH and wrote that she wanted to continue receiving ARChoices benefits pending the outcome of the appeal. On December 5, 2019, she stopped receiving home-delivered meals under the ARChoices program. Because Legal Aid contacted ADHS on her behalf on January 28, 2020, ADHS restored her meals, and she began receiving home-delivered meals on February 12, 2020.

186. On December 4, 2019, ADHS issued a notice of action terminating the ARChoices eligibility of Washington County resident B.K. and stating that her services would stop on January 20, 2020. On December 11, 2019, B.K. faxed a letter of appeal to OAH stating, “I want my benefits to continue at their current level until the outcome of the hearing.” Starting January 21, 2020, B.K. received no Medicaid services, including ARChoices in-home care. Because Legal Aid contacted ADHS on her behalf on January 28, 2020, ADHS restored her Medicaid the following day.

187. On January 8, 2020, ADHS issued a notice of action terminating the ARChoices eligibility of Washington County resident C.N. and stating that his services would stop on January 21, 2020. On January 10, 2020, C.N. sent a letter of appeal to OAH and wrote that “I request my benefits continue at their current level until the outcome of the hearing.” On January 21, 2020, C.N. received no Medicaid services, including ARChoices in-home care. Because Legal Aid contacted ADHS on his behalf on January 22, 2020, ADHS restored his ARChoices the following day.

188. On February 24, 2020, Jacqueline Dearmore filed a lawsuit against Gillespie, Rosen Sterling, and White alleging that her benefits were terminated despite timely appeal. In responsive filings, ADHS admitted that “Dearmore’s benefits were mistakenly discontinued.” (Dearmore Dkt. 28, p. 70). ADHS stated, “At most Dearmore’s complaint alleges negligence.” (Id., p. 51). Having reinstated Dearmore’s benefits after receiving a Motion for Temporary Restraining Order, ADHS then argued that “there is no ongoing alleged violation” and that Dearmore’s complaint should be dismissed for lack of standing. (Id., p. 20).

189. ADHS failed to continue Mr. Taylor’s benefits after being served with notice of the Dearmore suit and restored them only after being contacted by Legal Aid. See Paragraph 111.

190. Between 2016 and present, ARChoices beneficiaries not identified in Paragraphs 180 and 182 to 189 received notices of adverse action issued by ADHS, filed an appeal within 10 days from the date on the notice, and experienced a reduction or termination of ARChoices services prior to the outcome of the appeal. During this time, the only beneficiaries who received continuing benefits without any interruption were those who appealed within the 10-day timeframe and had an attorney or care agency representative who also contacted ADHS on their behalf within the timeframe.<sup>20</sup> See also Paragraphs 196(p), 225.

<sup>20</sup> ADHS does not keep a statistical report about continuing benefit eligibility pending appeal. All ARChoices beneficiaries facing adverse actions do not come to Legal Aid for assistance. ADHS and privacy laws do not allow access to records of non-client ARChoices beneficiaries. Lack of access to individual non-client records notwithstanding, the allegation is based on knowledge and evidentiary support reasonable under the circumstances. Importantly, a specific number or percentage of beneficiaries whose services were reduced or terminated despite timely appeal may be identified after a reasonable opportunity for discovery of ADHS’s records.

XI. MECHANICS OF THE APPEALS PROCESS AND CONTINUING BENEFITS

191. On April 26, 2019, pursuant to Arkansas's Freedom of Information Act, Legal Aid of Arkansas requested "all public records pertaining to ADHS policies, procedures, and processes currently in effect and those that were in effect as of February 28, 2019, for continuing benefit eligibility for Medicaid beneficiaries who appeal adverse agency decisions."

192. In response to the April 26, 2019 FOIA request, ADHS did not produce any written policy, procedure, or process for continuing benefit eligibility for Medicaid beneficiaries who appeal adverse agency decisions.

193. In response to subsequent FOIA requests, ADHS has not produced any written policy, procedure, or process for continuing benefit eligibility for Medicaid beneficiaries who appeal adverse agency decisions.

194. ADHS does not have any written policy, procedure, or process for continuing benefit eligibility for Medicaid beneficiaries who appeal adverse agency decisions.

195. Because ADHS does not have written policies, procedures, or processes for continuing benefit eligibility for Medicaid beneficiaries who appeal adverse agency decisions, the agency's actual process for maintaining benefit eligibility for beneficiaries who appeal is knowledge solely within the possession of the Defendants.

196. The Plaintiffs allege the following about the agency's process for continuing benefit eligibility for ARChoices beneficiaries who appealed within the 10-day timeframe during the period of January 1, 2016, to March 3, 2020:<sup>21</sup>

<sup>21</sup> March 3, 2020 is the date on which ADHS received Mr. Taylor's appeal of the service cuts contained in a February 25, 2020 person-centered service plan. See Paragraphs 108, 111.

(a) Upon deciding to take an adverse action, the relevant divisions or units within ADHS programmed the agency's computer systems to terminate or reduce a beneficiary's benefits immediately or, at the latest, on the 10th day following the date on which ADHS sent out a notice of adverse action. In the case of ARChoices, the relevant divisions or units included, but were not limited to, the Office of Long-Term Care (OLTC), which is presently an office within the Division of Provider Services and Quality Assurance (DPSQA), the Division of Aging, Adult, and Behavioral Health Services (DAABHS), which was formerly the Division of Aging and Adult Services (DAAS), the Division of Medical Services (DMS), and the Division of County Operations (DCO).

(b) To determine whether a beneficiary was eligible to receive continuing services pending appeal, the agency had to first determine whether the appeal was filed within 10 days of the date of the notice of adverse action. If the appeal was timely filed, the agency had to then take the steps necessary to continue the beneficiary's services. Since the necessary steps involved multiple divisions or units, each involved division or unit had to be notified to take the necessary action. Then, for a beneficiary to actually receive the continuing services, ADHS had to inform the beneficiary's care provider that the agency had authorized continuing services.

(c) The Office of Appeals and Hearings (OAH) received all appeal requests, which were either sent directly to OAH via mail or fax by beneficiaries or sent to OAH by a county DHS office where a beneficiary submitted an appeal request.

(d) OAH employees failed to review appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely for purposes of continuing benefits. OAH employees failed to take any steps necessary to ensure benefits were continued without interruption.

(e) Upon receiving an appeal involving ARChoices, OAH sent an email notification of appeal to DAAS/DAABHS, OLTC, DMS, and the General Counsel Section.

(f) OLTC, DMS, and General Counsel Section employees failed to review appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely and failed to take steps necessary to continue benefits.

(g) An employee within DAAS/DAABHS did review appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely for purposes of continuing benefits, subject to the following clarifications:

(i) DAAS/DAABHS did not perform this function as part of an established agency policy for reviewing appeals for timeliness for purposes of continuing benefit eligibility.

(ii) From January 1, 2016, until March 2017, no DAAS/DAABHS employee was designated to review appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely for purposes of continuing benefits.

(iii) From March 2017 to April 2018, DAAS/DAABHS designated Mitchell Harlan, one employee in the central office in Little Rock, to review all appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely for purposes of continuing benefits. There was no back-up DAAS/DAABHS employee to review appeal requests. In 2017, Cloud, Rosen, and Sterling learned that Harlan was receiving more appeals from OAH than he could reasonably manage and that beneficiaries' benefits were not always being continued despite timely appeal. After starting as DAABHS deputy director in February 2018, White learned that beneficiaries' benefits were not always being continued despite timely appeal.

(iv) From April 2018 to March 3, 2020, no DAAS/DAABHS employee was designated to review appeal requests to determine if they were filed timely for purposes of continuing benefits.

(h) Upon identifying a timely appeal, the DAAS/DAABHS employee had to inform a DAAS/DAABHS nurse in the county office where the beneficiary lives to take steps necessary to continue benefits.

(i) To continue benefits, the DAAS/DAABHS nurse in the local county office had to complete written paperwork, manually enter information in ADHS's computer system, and then inform OLTC, DMS, and DCO to take additional steps necessary to maintain benefits.

(j) To maintain benefits, OLTC, DMS, and DCO had to complete written paperwork and manually enter additional information in ADHS's computer system.

(k) In ADHS's system, the initial action to terminate or reduce a beneficiary's Medicaid benefits was stopped and benefits were continued only when all information was entered into the computer system by all necessary ADHS divisions or units.

(l) Even after all ADHS divisions or units entered the necessary information in the computer system, a beneficiary could not actually receive the continuing services until ADHS notified the beneficiary's care agency and/or PALCO that services were to be continued. See Paragraph 28. ADHS did not designate an employee to notify care agencies or PALCO.

(m) It took a minimum of three business days—and often took longer—to complete the process to stop an adverse action, continue benefits, and notify the care agency and/or PALCO.

(n) As a matter of practice or policy, no employee from any ADHS division sought confirmation from the various divisions and units involved that each involved division or unit took the steps necessary within their purview to continue a particular beneficiary's benefits. As a matter of practice or policy, the various divisions and units involved did not send such confirmation to any ADHS employee.

(o) Unless a beneficiary's attorney contacted ADHS, no ADHS employee in any division or unit was designated to ensure that the process to continue benefits was completed for any particular beneficiary.

(p) Of all the ARChoices beneficiaries who appealed within the 10-day timeframe, the only ones who received continuing benefits without interruption were those with an attorney or care agency worker who made additional contact with ADHS within the timeframe. Every other beneficiary who appealed within the 10-day timeframe had their benefits reduced or terminated, some temporarily (i.e. benefits were eventually restored to pre-reduction levels prior to the hearing) and some for the entirety of the appeal process.

(q) ADHS failed to account for any delays in the notice of action reaching the beneficiary such that beneficiaries did not have a full 10 days within which to lodge their appeal requests. Furthermore, ADHS's procedure did not allow sufficient time to stop planned adverse actions where appeals were filed towards the end of the 10-day timeframe.

(r) ADHS failed to complete the process to continue benefits for at least 30 identified beneficiaries who appealed within the 10-day timeframe, including the Plaintiffs, until those beneficiaries' attorneys contacted ADHS. See Paragraphs 180 and 182 to 189.

(s) No ADHS report tracks the number or percentage of people who appeal within the 10-day timeframe and receive continuing services without interruption.

197. Because ADHS's process for continuing benefit eligibility for ARChoices beneficiaries involves multiple divisions and offices, it is the type of ADHS internal policy that would require Sterling's review, approval by the Policy Review Committee of which Cloud, White, Sterling, and Sharum were part, and Gillespie's approval.

XII. LONG-STANDING PROBLEMS WITH ADHS'S HEARING OFFICE

198. ADHS's Office of Hearings and Appeals (OAH) has long-standing problems that render it unable to fulfill any role it has in the process to continue benefits pending appeal.

199. On February 4, 2016, then-chief Administrative Law Judge Teri Hays in an email to Sterling referred to the hearings and appeal system as a "broken system," noting "dysfunction in the total system," "a high number of continuances," that "OAH regularly receives an incomplete file," and that "OAH sometimes gets the wrong record." In response, Sterling admitted "big problems at several levels."

200. On July 5, 2016, chief ALJ Hays recommended that Sterling hire an attorney coordinator in the Office of Chief Counsel to identify "backlogs and other possible problems" in the hearing system, evaluate "personnel resource needs, including...logical alignment of work functions," perform "monitoring and implementation of, and compliance with, chief counsel directives and policies," and to "research DHS Divisional legal needs (what legal needs of the DHS divisions not currently being met that can, or do, result in legal actions—i.e. Review of notices for legal sufficiency....etc.)"

201. On July 5, 2016, chief ALJ Hays recommended that Sterling hire someone to supervise OAH operations, including, but not limited to, "[c]ontinual monitoring of workload trends in response to DHS organizational changes, law or policy changes, and social changes, and making adjustments as needed, "[a]ssuring that all time frames are met for all cases and legal activities, “[w]orking with other divisions to share and coordinate relevant data, “[s]upervising accurate and timely processes in the legal support and front office areas including correspondence; scheduling; subpoenas; tracking entries; case file management; timely securing of central registry; obtaining additional information needed.”

202. On July 5, 2016, chief ALJ Hays recommended that Sterling hire someone to supervise the quality of OAH work, including, but not limited to, the “quality of pre-hearing actions,” “the conduct of hearings,” “assuring data collection and record uploads,” “performance monitoring,” and “[r]ecommending changes to laws and policies to improve the fair hearing processes.”

203. In 2016, Sterling refused Hays’ recommendations to hire an attorney coordinator, an operations supervisor, and a quality supervisor for OAH. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Sterling has not hired any such person to date.

204. On October 19, 2017, Sterling sent chief ALJ Lech Matuszewski—Hays’ replacement—an August 4, 2016 email from Hays stating that OAH’s “current system is in dire need of upgrades so that we can produce better managerial data.” Sterling had not upgraded the system between August 4, 2016 and October 19, 2017.

205. Because of increased ARChoices appeals in 2019, OAH routinely takes between three and eleven days to notify other involved ADHS divisions or units once receiving a beneficiary’s appeal request, leaving insufficient time for benefits to be continued without interruption. In at least one instance, OAH took 46 days to inform other involved ADHS divisions or units, having received an appeal request on April 4, 2019 and having informed other divisions or units on May 20, 2019.

206. From 2019 to present, Sterling has not hired sufficient staff to process appeals and inform other involved divisions or units in a manner to ensure continuing benefits. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, Sterling has not asked for additional funds to hire sufficient staff to process appeals and inform other divisions or units in a manner to ensure continuing benefits.

207. From 2019 to present, Gillespie has not authorized, requested, or designated funds for Sterling to hire sufficient staff to process appeals and inform other involved divisions or units in a sufficient manner to ensure continuing benefits.

XIII. DEVELOPMENT OF DEFICIENT NOTICES

208. From January 1, 2016, until present, Cloud, Rosen, and White supervised the form and use of all notices of adverse action as follows, including making specific wording decisions:

(a) On July 1, 2016, Cloud and Rosen notified DAAS nurses that all ARChoices notices of adverse action receive their approval before being sent to beneficiaries.

(b) From November 1, 2016 through approximately January 31, 2017, ADHS suspended all adverse actions against ARChoices beneficiaries due to the Jacobs ruling.

(c) From November 2016 until April 2018, ADHS designated DAAS/DAABHS employee Mitchell Harlan to redesign its ARChoices notices under the supervision of Cloud and Rosen.

(d) On February 8, 2017, Harlan met with Cloud to determine the content of the notice and the ADHS unit or division ultimately responsible for sending it out. Rosen participated in the decision.

(e) Rosen made specific wording decisions about the notice on at least December 22, 2016, January 9, 2017, May 2, 2017, and September 11, 2017. On September 11, 2017, Harlan required Rosen to “sign off on” the notice before sending it to his DAAS/DAABHS superiors.

(f) Based on information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, in late 2018, Cloud, White, Rosen, and Sterling drafted, reviewed, and approved the form of the notices, including that which Dearmore received, and Cloud and White instructed subordinate staff to use the notices for adverse actions.

XIV. CLAIMS FOR RELIEF

209. At all relevant times, the Defendants were acting under color of law in the administration of ADHS.

210. The Plaintiffs assert their right to relief against the Defendants jointly, severally, or in the alternative with respect to the termination or reduction of their ARChoices services and resulting harms. Questions of law or fact common to all Defendants include all facts relating to the Plaintiffs’ ARChoices eligibility, the amount of services allocated to them, the timeliness of their appeals, their request for continuing services, the content of the notice provided, all facts pertaining to ADHS’s process for continuing the benefits of Medicaid beneficiaries who timely appeal, all facts pertaining to ADHS’s failure to continue the Plaintiffs’ ARChoices services pending the outcome of an evidentiary hearing, and all facts pertaining to the extent of damages.

211. Equitable relief is necessary because relief at law is inadequate to avoid further harm to the Plaintiffs while this case is ongoing and as long as they seek services under the ARChoices program.

212. There is an actual controversy between the parties because the Plaintiffs have suffered harm and are suffering ongoing harm based on ADHS's unlawful reduction of their services and failure to ensure an adequate system for continuing benefits and adequate notice.

213. The Plaintiffs are likely to suffer irreparable harm in the absence of injunctive relief for two reasons:

(a) Until they filed suit or had counsel contact ADHS, the Plaintiffs had insufficient ARChoices services to meet their care needs, faced the possibility of a hearing without adequate notice about the reasons for the reduction in her services, were subject to re-assessment and the resulting adverse action, and faced the threat of the reduction or termination of benefits even upon timely appeal. ADHS only changed its action in response to contact from Plaintiffs' counsel or a lawsuit. (Dearmore Dkt. 13, 17).

(b) As long as the Plaintiffs seek services under the ARChoices program, they are subject to reassessment at least once a year, the possibility of termination from the program, the likelihood of reduction of services under the methodology currently in effect (it resulted in a reduction of services in 2019 and 2020; there is no reason to believe future application would produce a different result), the use of deficient notice to inform them about agency decisions, and ADHS's deficient process for continuing benefits pending appeal.

214. The harm that the Plaintiffs suffer outweighs any injury that would be caused to the Defendants by implementing procedures to ensure that ARChoices beneficiaries receive adequate notice and continuing benefits when they appeal adverse agency actions within 10 days.

215. The public interest is significant in protecting ARChoices beneficiaries' due process rights to adequate notice and an evidentiary hearing prior to the termination or reduction of services because Medicaid provides medically necessary services to people who live in or near poverty and who cannot otherwise afford such services.

216. The Plaintiffs are likely to succeed on the merits of their claim, as all claims are enforceable by private parties and based on facts establishing the Defendants' unlawful conduct.

217. The Defendants have engaged in reckless and callous indifference to the Plaintiffs' constitutional rights such that punitive damages are needed to punish and deter such conduct, as evidenced by the Defendants' failure to implement adequate procedures despite repeated warnings of unlawful conduct across several years, Ms. Elder's suit, and Ms. Dearmore's suit.

218. As a direct and proximate consequence of the Defendants' conduct, the Plaintiffs are entitled to damages, including, but not limited to, the following to be specified at trial: expenses incurred as a result of the reduction of ARChoices, the value of the ARChoices services withheld, compensatory damages for delays in medically necessary care, mental anguish, and physical suffering, and other compensatory and punitive damages.

Official Capacity Claims

COUNT ONE: The defendants in their official capacities violated all Plaintiffs' constitutional due process right to continuing benefits pending appeal.

219. The Plaintiffs incorporate Paragraphs 1 through 218.

220. The Plaintiffs have a property interest in continuing coverage through the ARChoices Medicaid program. They have a legitimate claim of entitlement to ARChoices services because they were determined eligible for and received an unchanging amount of ARChoices services for several years.

221. The Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment prohibits states from denying, reducing, or terminating Medicaid services without due process of law. According to Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254 (1970), and subsequent cases, the constitutional right to due process includes, among other things, the right to adequate notice of the reasons for an adverse action and an evidentiary hearing prior to the termination or reduction of benefits. The due process requirements in Goldberg were explicitly integrated into federal Medicaid regulations. See 42 C.F.R. § 431.205(d).

222. Each Plaintiff appealed the ADHS adverse actions within 10 days.

223. Despite the timely appeals, ADHS terminated or reduced each Plaintiff's services for between two and three months, restoring them only after being served with a lawsuit or being contacted by counsel. As a result of the terminations or reductions, each Plaintiff suffered extensive physical and emotional harm, and Elder and Dearmore incurred financial costs.

224. The termination or reductions of the Plaintiffs' ARChoices services were caused by ADHS's systematic failure to implement and oversee an effective process to identify timely appeals and take whatever steps are necessary to maintain ARChoices services.

225. ADHS engages in a custom, policy, or practice to terminate or reduce the services of every beneficiary who timely appeals unless the beneficiary has an attorney or care agency worker who makes additional contact with ADHS within the 10-day timeframe. This requirement for action in addition to a timely appeal is incompatible with due process.

226. Additionally, or in the alternative, the termination or reductions of the Plaintiffs' services resulted from the failure of an ADHS employee responsible for identifying timely appeals and continuing services to perform the necessary tasks.

COUNT TWO: The defendants in their official capacities violated Dearmore's constitutional due process right to adequate notice of the reasons for the adverse action.

227. The Plaintiffs incorporate the contentions of Paragraphs 1 through 226.

228. ADHS mailed a notice of action to Ms. Dearmore on November 8, 2019. The notice does not identify that a reduction has taken place and does not explain the reasons that her benefits were reduced from 143 care hours per month to 103 care hours per month. As a result, Ms. Dearmore does not understand the reasons for the reduction in her services.

229. The notice violates the Fourteenth Amendment's Due Process Clause.

Individual Capacity Claims

COUNT THREE: Rosen in his individual capacity violated all Plaintiffs' constitutional due process right to continuing benefits pending appeal.

230. The Plaintiffs incorporate the contentions of Paragraphs 1 through 229.

231. Rosen manages the General Counsel Section within the Office of Chief Counsel.

232. On information and belief subject to confirmation after an opportunity for investigation or discovery, in 2016, Rosen refused to have the General Counsel Section involved in the process of reviewing appeals for purposes of continuing benefits despite requests from other ADHS divisions or units.

233. From 2016 to 2019, Rosen received allegations from Legal Aid that ADHS unlawfully terminated or reduced the benefits of ARChoices beneficiaries who appealed adverse agency action within 10 days.

234. Rosen and his subordinates in the General Counsel Section can effectuate a continuation or restoration of benefits, as seen when Rosen responded to Legal Aid's contentions with statements that benefits were or would be restored, continued, or reinstated. See, e.g., Paragraph 180, Exhibits 9, 16-17, 19-21, 24-26.

235. Rosen received Legal Aid's letter dated August 10, 2017 contending that ADHS did not ensure that ARChoices beneficiaries who appealed an adverse action within 10 days would receive continuing services and that beneficiaries without counsel would be adversely impacted. See Paragraph 180, Exhibits 22-23.

236. Any statement Rosen made in e-mails referenced in Paragraph 180 that he spoke with his client or DAAS involved a conversation with either Cloud, White, or Blocker.

237. Outside of the incidents referenced in Paragraph 180, Rosen spoke about the agency's failure to continue benefits for ARChoices beneficiaries who timely appealed with Cloud, White, or Blocker between January 1, 2016 and present.

238. Rosen spoke with Sterling multiple times between January 1, 2016 and present about the agency's process for continuing benefits for ARChoices beneficiaries who timely appealed, including in response to Legal Aid's August 10, 2017 letter.

239. Between January 1, 2016, and March 3, 2020, OAH e-mailed notifications of every beneficiary appeal to Rosen or a subordinate in the General Counsel Section.

240. Between January 1, 2016, and March 3, 2020, Rosen received monthly reports about the number of incoming appeals and his subordinate attorneys' caseloads.

241. Rosen knew the assessment and care allocation system implemented on January 1, 2019, would lead to a significant increase in the number of appeals.

242. As of January 1, 2019, Rosen knew that OAH, DAAS, DAABHS, and DPSQA could not accurately review appeals for timeliness and complete the process for continuing benefits pending appeal.

243. As of March 25, 2019,<sup>22</sup> Rosen had not:

(a) taken any steps to ensure that benefits were continued for a beneficiary who timely appealed unless contacted by a beneficiary's attorney;

---

(b) implemented any policy or procedure within the scope of his authority to ensure that ARChoices beneficiaries who timely appealed adverse actions would receive continuing benefits pending appeal;

(c) instructed subordinates in the General Counsel Section to take steps necessary to ensure that benefits are continued for beneficiaries who timely appeal unless contacted by a beneficiary's attorney;

COUNT SEVEN: White in his individual capacity violated Elder's and Dearmore's constitutional due process right to continuing benefits pending appeal.

271. The Plaintiffs incorporate the contentions of Paragraphs 1 through 270.

272. In his role as DAABHS deputy director, White administered ARChoices. On information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, he continued to exercise authority over the operation of ARChoices through November 2019 even after changing roles in October 2019.

273. White knew that ADHS had not been continuing benefits of ARChoices beneficiaries despite timely appeal during the period of 2016 to 2018.

274. White was involved in the development of the new assessment and care allocation systems.

(g) on information and belief subject to confirmation after a reasonable opportunity for discovery, asked for additional funds to hire sufficient staff to process appeals and inform other divisions or units in a manner to ensure continuing benefits.

277. White knew that the new assessment system resulted in significant numbers of adverse actions against beneficiaries by March 2019. As of March 12, 2019, White received Legal Aid's contention that six beneficiaries were in danger of having services reduced or terminated despite timely appeal. As of March 13, 2019, White learned that at least one of the six had services unlawfully terminated. On May 23, 2019, White definitively learned that ADHS had failed to continue the benefits of at least one additional ARChoices beneficiary facing an adverse action under the new assessment system when he received the complaint in the Elder lawsuit. He learned that ADHS again failed to continue benefits when he received the Dearmore complaint on February 25, 2020. (Dearmore Dkt. 6).

285. The Plaintiffs incorporate the contentions of Paragraphs 1 through 284.

286. In his role as director of DAAS and then as director of DPSQA, Cloud administered ARChoices from February 2015 until February 2018 and, then, jointly with White, from February 2018 until August 2019, when Cloud stopped working at ADHS.

287. Cloud knew that ADHS had not been continuing benefits of ARChoices beneficiaries despite timely appeal during the period of 2016 to 2018, including, but not limited to, being informed of the problem through Legal Aid's August 10, 2017 letter sent to Rosen and Sterling.

288. Cloud was involved in the development of the new assessment and care allocation systems.

289. Cloud knew the assessment and care allocation system implemented on January 1, 2019, would lead to a significant increase in the number of appeals.

291. Cloud knew that the new assessment system resulted in significant numbers of adverse actions against beneficiaries by March 2019 when his colleagues White, Rosen, and Blocker received Legal Aid's contention that six beneficiaries were in danger of having services reduced or terminated despite timely appeal and responded that at least one of the six had services unlawfully terminated. On May 23, 2019, Cloud definitively learned that ADHS had failed to continue the benefits of at least one additional ARChoices beneficiary facing an adverse action under the new assessment system when he received the Elder complaint.

297. Cloud was personally involved in the violation of Elder's constitutional rights by wrongly exercising his supervisory authority over policy and by failing to train or supervise his subordinates.

COUNT TEN: Gillespie in her individual capacity violated all Plaintiffs' constitutional due process right to continuing benefits pending appeal.

298. The Plaintiffs incorporate the contentions of Paragraphs 1 through 297.

299. In her role as ADHS Secretary, Gillespie has ultimate authority over all aspects of the Medicaid program, including ARChoices. She directly supervised Cloud, Sterling, and Sharum. She designated Dennis Smith to be her liaison on the independent assessment project, and Smith worked with White and Cloud in overseeing implementation of the new independent assessment system.

300. Gillespie knew that ADHS had not been continuing benefits of ARChoices beneficiaries despite timely appeal during the period of 2016 to 2018. On information and belief subject to confirmation after an opportunity for investigation or discovery, between February 2016, and December 31, 2018, Gillespie authorized the actual process ADHS had in place for continuing benefits for individuals who timely appeal.

301. Gillespie was involved in the development of the new assessment and care allocation systems, both on her own and through Smith.

302. Gillespie knew the assessment and care allocation system implemented on January 1, 2019, would lead to a significant increase in the number of appeals.

(g) ordered the development of written training materials to ensure that benefits are continued for beneficiaries who timely appeal;

(h) based the evaluations of her subordinates on their practices regarding continuing benefits for beneficiaries who timely appeal;

304. Gillespie knew that the new assessment system resulted in significant numbers of adverse actions against beneficiaries by March 2019. No later than May 23, 2019, Gillespie learned that ADHS had failed to continue the benefits of an ARChoices beneficiary facing an adverse action under the new assessment system when she received notice of the complaint in the Elder lawsuit. She learned that ADHS again failed to continue benefits when she received the Dearmore complaint on February 25, 2020. (Dearmore Dkt. 6).

305. From May 23, 2019 to March 3, 2020, Gillespie did not undertake any of the actions in Paragraph 303.

306. Gillespie demonstrated deliberate indifference to the systemic failure to ensure continuing benefits beneficiaries who timely appeal, including the Plaintiffs, through the acts attributed to her in this complaint.

309. Either a single ADHS employee or multiple employees were involved in the mechanics of identifying timely appeals and taking the steps necessary to maintain ARChoices services for beneficiaries.

310. The involved ADHS employee(s) failed to take the steps necessary to maintain the Plaintiffs' benefits. The involved ADHS employee(s) failed to review their appeal requests, correctly fill out paperwork, send an email to proper ADHS recipients, enter information into ADHS's computer system, and/or confirm that all necessary steps were taken.

311. As a result, the Plaintiffs' ARChoices services were reduced, causing the harms alleged in this complaint.

312. The involved ADHS employee(s) worked in OAH, the General Counsel Section, DAABHS, or OLTC under the direct supervision of Sterling, Rosen, White, Cloud, or Sharum, respectively, and under the ultimate supervision of Gillespie.

313. The failure of the involved ADHS employee(s) to maintain the Plaintiffs' benefits was caused by the inadequate ADHS training, supervision, policy, or procedures recited generally in this complaint and specifically in the counts against Cloud, Gillespie, Rosen, Sterling, and White.

314. John Does were personally involved in the violation of the Plaintiffs' constitutional rights by directly failing to take action to continue their benefits.

XV. PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, the Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court grant the following relief:

The amount of damages is to be determined at trial.
